SEWARD HANGING AGAIN STAYED; CASE GOES TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

Application for Writ of Error
Made by State Senator McCawley and Two Attorneys Granted by the Missouri Supreme Court.

EXECUTION HAD BEEN SET FOR TOMORROW

Man Under Conviction for Murder of Andrew Deck, Herculeum, Has Had Five Reprieves.

James Seward of 1621 South Third street, who was to have been hanged
at Hillsboro, Mo., tomorrow for the murder of Andrew Deck, prohibition informer, at Herculeum, Mo., was reprieved today when the Supreme Court of Missouri, in effect, granted him an appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States, along with a stay of execution.

Seward, who stoutly maintains his innocence, smiled and expressed thanks when told of the Court's action. Then as guards came up to congratulate him a fuller realization of what had happened seemed to dawn on him.

Asked About Family.

"Have my wife and kids heard about it?" he asked.

The Supreme Court action, en-banc, was to grant an application for a writ of error to take the case to the highest court in the land, on the grounds that the execution would violate guarantees of the State and Federal constitutions. A stay of execution during the pendency of this proceeding was granted also. The application was made by State Senator McCawley of Carthage, Attorney Albert S. Ennis of Festus and Attorney Frank E. Linquist of St.
Louis, who had become interested in the case in various ways.

Earlier Motion Denied.

Earlier today the State Supreme Court denied an application for a writ of habeas corpus, filed by Mc-Cawley, and yesterday the court declined a similar application by Linquist. Attempts to save Seward through appeals to the court and to the Governor, since his conviction was affirmed, have numbered seven.
The murder was on Feb. 26, 1921,
and Seward, the first of six defendants to be tried, was convicted at Hillsboro, July 13, 1921.

Seward has been kept for safety in the St. Louis jail, where a Post-Dispatch reporter saw him last evening. After a cheerful greeting in the jail bull-pen, his first remark was to express thanks to the Post-Dispatch for publishing the facts about the efforts to save him.

Last March Seward obtained the following 20 "pocket classic" books
from a Kansas publisher:

"Common Faults in Writing English," "How to Love," "Book of Synonyms," "Trial and Death of Socrates," "Proverbs of China," "Women and Other Essays," (Maeterlinck), "The Kiss and Other Stories," (Chekhov), "One of Cleopatra's Nights," "Poet's Complete Poems," "Evolution of Love," "Rhyming Dictionary," "Hypnotism Made Plain,"
"Psycho-Analysis: The Key to Human Behavior," "Chinese Philosophy of Life," "Essence of Buddhism," "Theory of Reincarnation Explained," "Buddhist Philosophy of Life," "What Great Men Have Said About Women," "What Great Women Have Said About Men," "The Ten Days of a Condemned Man."

The reporter asked Seward to tell something of his career and to explain why he chose these books.
"I was born in Hyde Park, N. Y., on the Hudson River," Seward related, "in 1882 (that makes him 41). I went through the second year of normal school at Poughkeep-
se. At one time, you see, I figured on teaching grade school. But then the Spanish-American War broke out. I wanted to get in the fight, but I was too young. I got a job as assistant to Hermann, the great magician, and traveled with him. I learned hypnotism and magic with him.

For quite a while, too, I sailed on a trading schooner, to South America and the West Indies.
"In 1901 I enlisted in the regular army and was sent to Cuba with the army of pacification. After a year and three months there I was sent to different barracks in this country, always with the Eighth Cavalry. We were at Jefferson Barracks in 1904 and I was in the escort for President Roosevelt when he came to the World's Fair here.
I met my wife while I was at the Fair."

WAGE ARBITRATION UP TO U. R. ELECTRICAL WORKERS

Strikers Agree to Reply to Proposal
of Manager for Receiver by 6 P. M. Tomorrow.

A committee of the Electrical Workers' Union, 150 members of which have been on strike at the United Railways for a week, agreed today at a conference with Col. A. T.
Perkins, manager for Receiver Wells, to reply before 6 p. m. tomorrow to a proposal from the receiver
that the wage scale be arbitrated.

In a written communication to the strikers' committee of 10, the receiver announced that he would refuse to deal with the men while they were on strike, but that if they returned to work he would begin negotiations
looking to the determination of a proper wage scale or to submit the scale to arbitration, or that he would submit to arbitration without preliminary negotiations.

The receiver suggested three arbitrators, one chosen by the men,
one by the United Railways and one
by the Public Service Commission.

On all three by the commission. He said service had not been interrupted, and that he had not filled
the places of the strikers, though there had been many applications for the places.

He agreed to hold the job open until noon tomorrow.
Perkins extended the time to 6 p.
m. at the request of O. E. Jennings and E. Y. Thornhill, spokesmen for the men.

CHICAGO, July 24.—An Angora
cat yesterday decided its owner by jumping into the arms of Mrs. William O'Leary instead of those of James O'Leary, who had been arrested charged with stealing the cat.
Unable to determine, the judge told each of the principals to call the animal and left the case to the cat.
Kitty jumped into Mrs. O'Leary's lap. "The cat is yours, Mrs.
O'Leary," the judge said.

SAYS MAXWELL HAD LOVE AFFAIR WITH MRS. RYAN

Assistant Prosecutor, Opposing Pleas of Authors' Head
for Dismissal of Indictment, Cites Alleged Details

ASSERTS THEY WENT TO RESORTS ABROAD

Declares Wife of Ex-Financier While on Ship, Exchanged Radios Daily
With the Accused.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 24.—Evidence of a love affair between Mrs. Allan
A. Ryan, wife of the former financier, and George Maxwell, president of the American Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers, who is under indictment on a charge of writing anonymous and scurrilous
letters to Ryan, was disclosed by Assistant District Attorney Maloney
today in a brief opposing Maxwell's motion for dismissal of the indictment.

Contending that the letters addressed to Ryan contained information possessed only by Maxwell, Maloney quoted from love letters and radiograms alleged to have been exchanged by Maxwell and Mrs.
Ryan. He also detailed at length Maxwell's friendship with several other women.

Detailing the love affair, which he asserted was followed by the sending of letters to Ryan in which it was charged that Mrs. Ryan had been unduly friendly with Maxwell, Maloney's brief read:

"On April 6, 1923, Mrs. Ryan sailed for Europe on the Maximilian, with Mrs. Huhn of Park avenue. On board they met Maxwell and the insultation between Maxwell and Mrs.
Ryan then developed. Mrs. Ryan and Maxwell stayed in London and Paris and took a trip to Lake Como and Milan.

Visited Mrs. Ryan in Maine.
While in Europe, Mrs. Ryan and Maxwell exchanged letters and grammars when they were separated. Mrs.
Ryan returned to New York July 6 and on board the steamship Majestic and exchanged radios with Maxwell daily while on board ship.
On her return she went to York Harbor, Me., with her family. Maxwell returned June 14 and made two trips to York Harbor. He visited Mrs. Ryan, spending 10 days each week each time. While in New York he called Mrs. Ryan almost daily on the telephone.

On Oct. 7, Mrs. Ryan sailed with her children on the steamship Baltic for Paris, leaving her husband and oldest son in this country.
Mrs. Ryan and Maxwell exchanged radios daily on her trip across and after her arrival she exchanged
three or four cabigrams a week
with Maxwell. On March 7, 1923, Maxwell sailed for France on the Paris and exchanged radios daily with Mrs. Ryan from the steamer.
Three days later the brief asserted, that Ryan received the first of a series of anonymous letters telling of the alleged relations of Mrs. Ryan and Maxwell. It is the alleged writing of these letters that Maxwell has been indicted,
as well as sending the alleged scurrilous communications.

Maxwell Separated From Wife.
Maloney's brief describes Mrs.
Ryan as being 43 years old, a member of the Tack family of Philadelphia, and mother of six children, the eldest of whom is Allan A. Ryan Jr., a senior at Yale University and manager of one of the student publications.

Maxwell is said to be 53 years old,
native of Glasgow, whose claim to being son of Sir William Maxwell of Rothsay, Scotland, was said to be
"apparently fictitious."

Maxwell was married 34 years to a daughter, Anna, now living in New York. He was separated from his wife 2 years ago. He started life, according to Maloney,
as a piano tuner in Scotland.

Court Denounces Methods Used to Get Indictment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 24.—Methods employed by Assistant District Attorney Kilroe to obtain the indictment of George Maxwell, president of the American Association of Authors, Composers and Publishers,
on the charge of writing scurrilous
and anonymous letters to Allan A.
Ryan were denounced yesterday by Judge McIntyre in General Sessions.

Urging that the charges be dismissed, former Judge Robert S.
Johnstone, attorney for Maxwell,
said his client's housekeeper, Mrs.
Elizabeth Hodierne, had been forced to submit to an all-day grilling in Kilroe's office March 23, when Maxwell was in Europe; that she was insulted by a "detective" who participated in the grilling, and that finally, "because she would not admit mailing a letter which she did not mail."

PLANE DIRECTED BY RADIO ON 250-MILE FLIGHT IN FRANCE

Test Said to Prove Practicability of Method as Guide in Night Flying.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, July 24.—A French Government airplane today completed a flight from the Saint Asiles wireless station to Tours and return, a distance of about 250 miles. The pilot got his directions only by wireless. The indications were received on an apparatus called the radio goniometer, which showed the air-plane's position with relation to the wireless station. This device enabled the pilot to make the journey with an error of only 3 per cent in direction on the outward flight and with entire accuracy on the return.

The test was announced as satisfactory, proving the practicability of such a method for night flying.

GERMAN PRINCESS CONVICTED OF TREASON

Given 6-Months' Sentence for Part in Escape of Capt. Ehr-hardt, Kapp Revolt Leader.

By the Associated Press.
LEIPZIG, July 24.—Princess Marguerite von Hohenlohe-Oehringen was convicted today of complicity
in high treason and perjury for her part in the escape of Capt. Ehr-hardt, commander of the "Iron Brigade" during the Kapp putsch of 1920. She was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

The Princess, who observed her twenty-ninth birthday in jail last Saturday while awaiting trial, gave refuge to Capt. Ehrhardt before his arrest last December. As Ehrhardt is accused of high treason for his part in the Kapp putsch, the charge of complicity against the Princess was based on her act in giving him domicile.

The perjury charge arose from her denial that she knew the former naval commander when, it was shown in court, he was at that time living in her home near Munich.

Ehrhardt escaped from the Leipzig prison about 10 days ago and still is at large.

Princess on Stand at Perjury Trial.

By the Associated Press.
LEIPZIG, July 24.—Margaret of Hohenlohe-Oehring, accused of perjury and of aiding a traitor to her country, Capt. Herman Ehrhardt, Germany's leading monarchist con-spirator testified yesterday in her perjury trial.

The courtroom was jammed with men and women curious to hear Princess Margaret's story of her in-fatuations with the handsome, popular adventurer. Young and beautiful, she tried to appear composed under examination broke down and wept.

Ehrhardt's escape had made the authorities doubly cautious and a strict watch was kept by police stationed outside the building to prevent the Princess's followers from kidnaping the Princess.

The charges against her were that she harbored Ehrhardt, knowing he was a traitor sought by the police,
and that she swore falsely to officers seeking him that she did not know him, although he was then living at her home. The prosecutors say she was deeply involved also in the adventurer's anti-republican plots.

She stepped bravely to the stand,
but the first questions reduced her to tears. In a scarcely audible voice
she told how she became infatuated with Ehrhardt after his guerrilla activities in Upper Silesia.

"I worshipped him as the liberator of Upper Silesia," she said. She told how she met the Captain frequently in Berlin and told of the Kapp "putsch" of 1920, of which Ehrhardt was the military leader,
remained in close touch with him.

Then the revolt failed and the commander of the "Iron Brigade" fled to Munich. Princess Margaret admits she followed, rented an apartment and sheltered her hero.
Meantime, he was organizing the secret "C" organization, members of which assassinated Matthias Erzberger and Walter Rathenau, and attempted to kill Maximilian Harden, Schiedemann and other Liberal leaders.

The Government issued a warrant for Ehrhardt's arrest, and Margaret bought a small estate near Munich to which she and the fugitive moved. He changed his name to Dr. Eschwege, and the Princess told of her husband's search for a medical friend from Berlin.

"I thought he meant to abandon his adventurous life and become a different man," she declared. "Because of housing shortage, the commission threatened to billet a stranger on me. So I took Capt. Ehrhardt as a lodger. I did not charge him any rent, for he was an old acquaintance and worked in my garden."

SCHWAB SAYS HE ADVISED $750,000 LOAN TO MORSE

Ex-Head of Fleet Corporation Asserts Government
"Should Have Been Willing to Take Risk."

URGED HIM TO CURB
SONS' ACTIVITIES

Testifies He Did Not Believe Defendant Was Intentional by Delaying Work, but Yards Ranked Low.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, July 24.—Charles
M. Schwab, who served during the war as head of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, appeared in court here
today as a witness for the defense in the trial of Charles W. Morse and others, charged with conspiracy in connection with war-time shipbuilding.

He had been mentioned in previous defense testimony as expressing a high opinion of the Morse plant at Alexandria, Va., the efficiency of which had been questioned
by the Government. He came to Washington from his home in Loretto, Pa., after a week-end conference with Morse's counsel.

Schwab told of the need of ship yards and the pressing needs for ships of all types in April, 1919.
He said he visited all the yards in the country, offering encouragement to the workers and implanting morale and inspiration.

"Did you know Charles W.
Morse?" asked Attorney Nash Rockwood for the defense.

"Yes, I had known him for 26 years."

"Did you know of the ships he was building for the Government?"

"Yes. But I did not know the details of the contract. They were
manager of the fleet corporation."

Urged Loan of $750,000.
The witness told of a visit to the Alexandria plant of the Virginia Ship Building Corporation, at which the question of a $750,000 loan to the Morse came up, and said he urged Piez to grant it.

The Government, he explained,
should have been willing to take a risk when the matter of ships was so vital. The plant was in excellent condition, he said, well constructed,
well designed and "first-class in every particular." He estimated it had cost him $1,500,000 to $2,000,000.

Details of a conversation with Morse and his three sons, in which he urged more speed in shipbuilding,
Schwab said he recommended
"with considerable force" that Charles W. Morse curtail the activities of his sons in the business.

"In all my experience," he said,
"I have never found it wise to have my sons interfere with the vital work of my business."

"I told Charles W. Morse he was making a mistake from the standpoint of efficiency in having his sons in there."

"What did the Morse say?"

"They did not agree. Like most rich men's sons, they would not work like I would have people work
for me."

Schwab said Piez and others were opposed to the loan to the Morse,
but that he took the position that such a matter should not be allowed to interfere with the vital war-time needs of the shipbuilding program. He instructed his assistants, however, he said, to get the best possible protection for the Government.

"Did the Morse intentionally delay the building of ships?" asked Rockwood.

"Certainly not," the witness replied. "I believe the Morse and all other shipbuilders did their best to fulfill their contracts."

The witnesses identified two letters written to the Morse in which he complained that their yards were very low in the scale of plants turning out ships, and said he called them into conference to impress upon them the need of a better showing.

Asked if the conferences had corrected the situation, the witness replied:

"Well, I should not say 'corrected.'
If conferences were all that were needed to correct such things,
we would have had no trouble
building ships."

Schwab said the Morse yards were not the only ones low on the scale.
Others, he said, which made poor showings, were promptly notified.

Referring to the salaries of Morse's sons, the witness said he recommended that they be cut 50 per cent and that Morse agreed. "He was an example of patriotism," he said, "and he was reduced."

COMMONS REJECTS ARMAMENT PARLEY PLEA BY 286-169

BALDWIN OPPOSES PLAN AS FUTILE

Amendment Offered as Al-

LONDON, July 24.—Disarmament tomorrow, but not today. That is the result of a seven-hour debate in the House of Commons yesterday on a motion of Ramsay MacDonald, leader of the opposition, that the Government "should take immediate steps to call an international conference to consider a program of national security based on disarmament."

Government supporters, however,
produced an amendment that "at the earliest possible opportunity the Government should use its influence to the utmost extent, both through the League of Nations and otherwise, to bring about a general limitation of armaments."

With this "imperfectly phrased" alternative, as MacDonald called it, to choose, the House rejected the Labor resolution, 286 to 169.

MacDonald, in opening the debate,
explained that Labor did not men-

HOME-MADE CURRENCY USED BY GERMANS IN OCCUPIED TERRITORY

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 24.—The German Government is turning out homemade currency to take the place of paper of the Reichsbank, which is unavailable, writes the Dusseldorf correspondent of the Daily Mail, who says private firms and manufacturers are inundating
the finance ministry at Berlin
with requests for permission to print their own currency. Otherwise, they say, they will be unable to pay their employees.

Some business combines already have issued such notes, and there are instances where the managers of mines have put out 100,000-mark bonds against the assets of the mines. One Dues-seldorf firm has issued metal tokens for various amounts.

Such private enterprises are in addition to monetary issues by the government. Some of the Ruhr towns have been using newspaper presses to turn out notes, under authorization of the Berlin Government.

In the House of Commons yesterday,
no vote was taken on an amendment introduced by R. W. O'Neill, which had been accepted by the Government, inviting the Government to take the earliest favorable opportunity to attain the object desired
through the agency of the League of Nations. This amendment was talked out.

MESSANGER FOR 3 TORONTO BANKS ATTACKED AND ROBBED

By the Associated Press.

Assaults Escape With What Is Believed to Be Large Sum After Violence Two Men.
TORONTO, July 24.—Six men jumped from a large automobile today, attacked messengers of the Standard, Sterling and Commerce
banks returning from the Clearing House with numerous bags of money and escaped with what is believed to have been a large sum, after wounding two Sterling bank employees in a pistol fight.

The bank messengers, on foot,
were followed by other bank employees in autos. At the attack,
James W. Harris of the Sterling Bank, jumped from a machine and opened fire on the robbers. He was dropped by a bullet in the abdomen.
W. S. Deck, a Sterling Bank messenger, was also wounded. Both are in critical condition.

Court Appoints Her Custodian of Her Parents' Wages.
CHICAGO, July 24.—Josephine Zojniska, 12 years old, was made custodian of the wages of both her father and mother by Judge William Morgan in the Court of Domestic Relations yesterday. The mother asserted that the father took her wages and that the bills piled up and were unpaid. The Judge told the little girl to receive the money
from both parents, buy the groceries,
pay the bills, distribute the money
and report to the court each week.

PLATFORM 'SALE' OF STOCK BLOCKED AT SCHEEL INQUIRY

Chairman's Point of Proceed-ure Restrains Motor Inventor From Offering More Shares to Inquisitive Holders.

Officers of the Scheel Motors Corporation, 2921 West Pine boulevard, apparently won on points in an exchange of verbal questionnaires before a meeting of about 200 of the 1500 stockholders last night at Eagles' Hall, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues, called by a group of stockholders to inquire into the conduct of the business.

The meeting almost backfired
from the inquisitorial purpose at one point, as only an interruption
on procedure by the chairman, Herbert Scheel, inventor of the Scheel rotary valve engine, and former president of the company, from selling stock from the platform
after he had been grilled with questions on the management.

Numerous Questions Asked.
The atmosphere was charged with questions, and many of them went unanswered for being crowded out by other questions. Shortly before the close it was discovered reporters were present and a motion was made that nothing be published. A hasty discussion followed, both of officers of the company and stockholders who called the meeting urging the reporters be permitted to remain. A cry of "throw 'em out!"
rose from the rear of the hall.

When the vote was taken only a half-dozen voted for the motion, and about 200 against it.

After a prolonged defense of the company by Herbert Scheel, the meeting began limping along on three cylinders. G. W. Hall, a stockholder, made a speech suggesting the stockholders subscribe additional stock to enable the company to carry on with proposed production. No action was taken. Then the meeting adjourned, with a promise from Scheel that the defense of the company would be renewed on July 29, when a meeting of stockholders will be held to fill three vacancies in the board of directors.

Stockholders had raised an inquiry about expenditures of $45,000 for four racing cars which were entered in the Indianapolis races May 30, last, but were withdrawn because a type of roller bearing used in the connecting rods burned out 12 tests.

Scheel said this mishap was not the fault of the rotary valve feature and stated the building and entry of the cars had been approved by an advisory committee of stockholders,
now out of existence.

"Our salesmen have been out for weeks trying to overcome the effect of that mishap," Scheel continued,
"and since this publicity has resulted
we can't sell a share of stock."

Refers to Family Holdings.
He referred to a charge that the first meeting that management of the company was a "family affair," although the Scheels controlled but 30 per cent of the stock. Scheel said members of his family controlled only 11 per cent of the stock.
His father, H. A. Scheel, is president; Louis Scheel, brother, treasurer, and L. T. Constantine, a brother-in-law secretary.

In answer to an inquiry by J. R.
Field, one of the stockholders interested in the calling of the meeting, Scheel said John A. Schroeder, vice-president and general manager,
had received a salary of $10,000 a year, but this had been reduced to $5000. Asked what Schroeder's duties had been, Scheel said he was an automobile engineer, had been in the stock sales, and worked in the general interest of the company. He first said it would take an hour to describe these duties, but reduced this statement to a few minutes.

Mayor Kiel's Invitation.
On a question about Mayor Kiel being invited to the Indianapolis races Scheel denied the company paid any of the expense. He answered
a question as to why a garment
been sold by stating the company is planning manufacture of several cars and had ordered parts. The cars could be built for $500 or $700
he said, and sold for $1200.

PLANE TAKING MAIL FOR HARDING

Machine to Meet Train Which Will Relay Sack.
CHICAGO, July 24.—An airplane, carrying a sack of mail for President Harding and his party, left Ashburn Flying Field here today for Cheyenne, Wyo., where it will meet the transcontinental Union Pacific train which left here yesterday.

The plane is expected to reach its destination tomorrow and the mail will be placed aboard the train and sent to Vancouver, B. C., where the President will reach it on Thursday. The sack of mail arrived in Chicago from Washington this morning and within 20 minutes the aviator was winning his way across the sky with the Presidential party's mail.

NEW YORK TO SEEK TO OUST THE KLAN AND THE KAMELIA

Material Changes Alleged to Have Been Made in Articles of Incorporation After Supreme Court Approved Them.

ALBANY, N. Y., July 24.—Action will begin immediately in Supreme Court seeking to restrain the incorporators of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Inc., and the Kamelia, Inc., from exercising powers as a corporation in New York State on the ground that they have made material changes in their certificate of incorporation after it was approved by Supreme Court Justice George E.
Pierce of Buffalo, it was announced yesterday.

Attorney-General Carl Sherman
will make the announcement after a conference with Secretary of State James A. Hamilton, said he also would ask that the court issue an order canceling the papers filed by the organizations in the Secretary of State's office.

The Klan and the Kamelia, women's auxiliary, filed papers of incorporation under the Walker bill, passed at the last Legislative session, which provided for the incorporation of secret societies. The several organizations must file membership lists, constitution and by-laws with the Secretary of State.
The two organizations, it was charged, presented the documents to Justice Pierce for approval, then made material changes in the certificate of incorporation.

NEWFOUNDLAND PREMIER QUILTS AFTER GRAFT DISCLOSURES

Minister of Justice Warren Invited to Succeed Sir Richard A. Squires as Cabinet Chief.
ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 24.—
Prime Minister Sir Richard A.
Squires has resigned following disclosures of corruption in certain branches of his administration. Government officials in St. John's, N. F., Warren, Minister of Justice, to form a Cabinet.

For a month charges of graft
have been made against the Department of Agriculture and Mines, of which Dr. A. Campbell is the head.
Campbell is in Canada, but Saturday
the remainder of the Cabinet asked their chief to resign. Sir Richard, when he was elected leader of the Newfoundland Liberal party in 1919 and became Premier, was the youngest Prime Minister in the British Empire, being only 23. Before that he had been Minister of Justice.

The new Premier has been a member of the Newfoundland Parliament for more than 20 years and entered the Cabinet as Minister of Agriculture and Mines under Sir Richard.

RED TAPE CUT IN QUOTA CASE

By the Associated Press.

Concert Master Refused to Land
Unless Family Accompanied Him.
NEW YORK, July 24.—Arthur Beckwith, concert master of the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, who arrived today on the liner Ardura
from Europe, was refused to land his wife and three children would be excluded because the British quota was filled, is now at his hotel. So is his family.

Commissioner of Immigration
Cullen learned of the musician's plight, and started cutting red tape.
It took three hours' cutting, but the family finally was landed at the Battery. The family took a motor ship to Ellis Island and received a quick hearing before a special board of inquiry. Beckwith had passed the immigration tangles as a professional musician, but his family was the ship's hold, and when told his family would not have to put in a night at the island.

The following day Johnstone took the court Mrs. Hodierna's release was offered, on condition that she take the "detective" to Maxwell's residence and unlock a desk so he might search it for evidence.

Johnstone based his arguments mainly on the stenographic record of the grand jury inquiry at which Ryan, Mrs. Hodierna and other witnesses appeared.

He introduced the record showed that "the defendant's rights were violated by the reception in evidence of articles of personal property taken from his dwelling in a manner violative of his fundamental rights."

Although radio messages exchanged by Maxwell and Mrs. Ryan were introduced as evidence before the grand jury, Johnstone argued they had no bearing on the indictment.

Ryan, it appeared, told the grand jury he did not desire to seek a divorce from Mrs. Ryan, but was proposed to divorce on religious grounds. He said he and his wife were happy until she met Maxwell.
Following his plunge into bankruptcy last year as a result of his efforts to buck Wall Street, he sent five of his children to school
in Europe because it was cheaper than keeping them in this country.

CHESTER ASYLUM TO ARM ONE OF ITS GUARDS IN FUTURE

Modification of Previous No-Firearm Policy Announced
After Inquiry Into Outbreak.

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Correspondent.
CHESTER, Ill., July 24.—An armed guard, in a tower overlooking the recreation inclosure of the State Hospital for Criminal Insane, will in future be permitted to carry a revolver to prevent such outbreaks as that in which 41 inmates of the hospital escaped Sunday evening. This modification of the previous no-firearms policy at the institution was announced today
by Judge C. H. Jenkins, Director of the State Department of Public Welfare, who has made an investigation of the affair.

Judge Jenkins said today that he had found on occasion to name
anyone in charge of the institution,
and that he considered that Dr.
Frank A. Stubblefield, the white-haired superintendent, and the guards on duty at the time, had shaken them in their attempt to quell the outbreak.

Others to Be Unnamed.
Judge Jenkins said that the guards within the inclosure would continue to be unarmed. As a precaution before the outbreak of Sunday night, the old wooden benches
will be removed, and concrete benches, imbedded in the soil, will take their place. The benches were removed from the inclosure at two places. The wire fence will be strengthened with new steel wire.

Judge Jenkins said he had not learned how some of the prisoners obtained the keys to their cells today, and it was believed that most of the remaining 13 would be captured. The count of 41 does not include Joe Jackson, negro burglar of Kankakee, whose throat was cut before he could get outside the inclosure, or Walter O'Malley, St.
Louis bank robber, who was considered the leader of the outbreak, and
who was captured on the spot.

caped were in their cells to-

closure, or Walter O'Malley, St.

who was captured on the spot.

Those who were at large this morning were John Fredrick, Dave George, Elijah Leinhardt, Otto Lin-
der, John Moran, Paul Mayo, Joe Mullen, Joe Reader, R. Shannon, Vito Spisito, Edward Thorpe, John Volter and Dick Yma.

One Murderer at Large.
Of the 12 murderers who escaped,
the only one still at large is Vito Spisito, who was sent here from Chicago. Frank Riga, another Chicago murderer, was caught at 11 o'clock last night in the brush of the ravine, near the hospital. George Karnellos of Chicago, who is a two-time murderer, was caught by a detective who first arrested him for a previous murder, made a desperate resistance when he was captured by a number of hospital guards and refused to land when told his
night at the island.

CONSTANTINOPLE CELEBRATES TURKS' DIPLOMATIC VICTORY

Ottoman Cannon, Fired for First Time Since Armistice, Give Signal for Rejoicing.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and Chicago Daily News. (Copyright, 1923.)
CONSTANTINOPLE, July 24.—A salute of 101 salves, fired this morning by the Turkish batteries in Constantinople, announced to the population that the war with Turkey has ended in a complete victory for this country.

It was the first time since the armistice that the natives had heard reports of Turkish guns, and the Muhammadan population, in their holiday clothes, paraded in the streets celebrating the event.

The shops were ordered closed for five days. Public as well as private houses are adorned with flags. Authorities commanded most of the carriages and motor cars, and placed them at the disposal of the populace which filled the streets, singing patriotic songs and shouting:

"Long Live Kemal Pasha!"
The Turks are proud of their victory, especially because it was won not on the battlefields but at the diplomatic table, where jealousy between the British and French contributed more to the allies' defeat
than did strength of the Turkish arguments.

Although Turkey was defeated in the World War and was charged with more crimes against civilization than any other defeated nation,
she has succeeded in imposing her own terms and in securing a situation better for her than pre-war days. The loss of Arabia, Palestine and Syria is unimportant, because these provinces proved at all times more troublesome than beneficial to the empire owing to continuous rebellions. It is amply compensated by the fact that Turkey, not only does not need to pay war indebtedness, but refuses to pay pre-war debts, contracted in gold and sterling
in the same currencies.

Abolition of capitulations gives freedom to the Turkish Government to tax foreigners, who hitherto have been exempted from taxation, and thus added a financial policy which,
if internal conditions become stabilized, should allow the country to make a rapid financial recovery.

The nation, as well as the Government, is still very "anti-foreigner."
and everything indicates that the promises given at Lausanne, that the Christian minorities will enjoy the same rights and security as the Muhammadans, will be a dead letter.

single feature of the Lausanne conference. Bolshevism Russia probably has committed Russia for all time to opening the straits to men-of-war.

Lord Curzon was unable to be present at the second sitting of the conference, he continued to be the directing mind in shaping its course.

Unfurling all of the weary, endlessly dominated one thought dominated all discussion. It was that Turkey should be brought back to Europe and not be forced by estracism to cast her lot with the Muhammadan people of the East—
Egypt, India, Persia, Arabia and Afghanistan.

TRAINS BACKING INTO UNION STATION COLLIDE

Three Passengers Report Injuries in Pennsylvania and Missouri Pacific Crash.

Two trains backing into Union Station, Pennsylvania No. 135 from Columbus, and Missouri Pacific No. 18, the Hot Springs Special, collided at 7:35 a. m. today in front of Tower 1, in the station yards. The rear sleeping cars of the two trains, which were at the front of the trains as they were then moving, were derailed and damaged, and three passengers of the Pennsylvania train reported injuries.

Harry English of Cleveland was cut on the nose by glass. F. G. Griffith of Columbus, Ind., who was shaving, suffered an injury to his neck. E. F. Berdmann of Detroit reported his left hip bruised. An inquiry into the cause of the wreck, President Miller of the Terminal Association was informed that the Missouri Pacific train had the right of way, and that the block had been set against the Pennsylvania train. The conductors of both trains were on the rear ends, then in front, and were watching the air pressure on the brakes. At such times, the conductor, rather than the engineer, is considered responsible for the movement of the train. A further investigation was ordered. The Missouri Pacific conductor was E. Frazier of Clayton, and the Pennsylvania conductor was J. C. Stottmeyer of Indianapolis. Each said he believed he had a clearance. The derailment caused an obstruction which took two hours to clear up, and some suburban trains discharged their passengers in the yards.

PACIFIST, EX-CONGRESSWOMAN, SENDS SON TO ANNAPOLIS

Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck Introduced the "War Referendum" Resolution Into Congress.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Although Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck, ex-Congresswoman, is a staunch advocate of peace, she sent her 15-year-old son, Wallace, off to the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis yesterday.

Mrs. Huck introduced the war referendum resolution into Congress, where it is now before the Foreign Affairs Committee.

The resolution, she said, puts the question of going to war to a referendum vote, but stipulates that the vote shall be taken only when the nation is considering going to war with a nation operating under a similar referendum.

Mrs. Huck says she will enter the peace contest sponsored by Edward Bok.

President Says Nation "Is Disarmed as Compared With Neighbors."

By the Associated Press.

BUENOS AIRES, July 24.—President De Alvear yesterday announced for secret consignment of 150,000,000 gold pesos to the Argentine army.

The Argentine peso is worth 16 cents in American money.

The "negative results" in fact to limit South American armaments at the recent Pan American Conference and "our state of almost disarmament, as compared with our nearest neighbors," are "a high army chief" intervened in the action.

De Alvear said that the appropriation proposed "seems large, the heads of government, in view of the South American military situation, close to the Argentine army, are obliged to provide for even which will guarantee us for the future."

"No guns and not a gun powder has been acquired since 1917," the official quoted as having added, "all that has been said at the conference is unnecessary to attempt to define the situation of our country, as compared with the organization of our army. It therefore is up to the Congress to guard against any further acquisition of machine guns and artillery."

SEES $149,000,000 FOR ARGENTINE ARMY

President Says Nation "Is Almost Disarmed as Compared With Neighbors."

By the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, July 24.—President De Alvear yesterday sent to the Argentine Congress a bill for secret consideration authorizing a loan of $149,000,000 gold pesos to modernize the Argentine army, according to La Razón.

The Argentine peso is worth about 10 cents in American money. The "negative results" in the efforts to limit South American armaments at the recent Pan-American Conference and "our state of being almost disarmed, as compared with our nearest neighbors," are given by the high army chief interviewed by La Razón as the reason for President De Alvear's action. This official is quoted as saying that while the appropriation proposed "naturally seems large, the heads of the Government, in view of the South American military situation, clearly expected at Santiago, are themselves obliged to provide for everything which will guarantee us for the future."

"The guns and not a gram of powder has been acquired by the army since 1911," the official is quoted as having added, "and after all that has been said at Santiago, it is unnecessary to attempt further to define the situation of our country, as compared with the elements of our organization of our neighbors, therefore is up to the executive and to Congress to guard against undesirable contingencies."

The message of President De Alvear to the Senate is said to have been accompanied by plans proposed by the ministry of war for the establishment of a strong air force, an extensive acquisition of modern machine guns and artillery, and sanitary equipment, together with machinery for the manufacture of projectiles. Under the proposals made by the President, a technical commission would be sent to Europe, with headquarters in France, to acquire necessary war materials.

MAINTENANCE CONTRACTORS WON'T PAY CARPENTERS $1.50

Master Builders' Official Expresses Belief Some Subcontractors
May Grant Demand.

The vote by union carpenters to demand $1.50 an hour, an increase of 25 cents a hour, which would make their wages $12 a day, came as no surprise to the general contractors of St. Louis, who say that most of the building under way here has been constructed for which maximum wages are demanded and paid.

An official of the Master Builders' Association, which is composed of general contractors and members of that organization would not pay more than $1.25 an hour, the prevailing scale, but expressed the opinion that some subcontractors probably would grant the new demand of the carpenters.

"General contractors are doing less than one-fifth of the building construction now under way," said this official, "and the rush to finish dwelling houses and apartments for full occupancy is resulting in a constant demand for workmen and fast wages. Millions of dollars in big construction has been shelved because of high building costs. Labor is not altogether to blame; material prices are at the peak, some materials, such as sand and gravel, being up about 400 per cent. Costs must come down before the really big building projects can be started, and until then the general contractor must live as best he can."

The carpenters received $1.10 an hour to May 1, when their scale was increased to $1.25 an hour. They voted last week to demand $1.50.

MISSOURI U. CADETS WIN HONORS AT FORT SNELLING

Win Efficiency Rating and First Place for All-Around Excellence
in R. O. T. C. Contest.

By the Associated Press.
FORT SNELLING, Minn., July 24.—University of Missouri cadets took high honors, represented by three medals for marksmanship, and the cups, at the seventh Army Corps and R. O. T. C. Field Day exercises here last night.

The exercises began with a dress parade late this afternoon, at the close of which 32 students were given commissions in the reserve corps. Winners of the rifle contest were: C. J. Watson, 223 out of a possible 240; H. W. Denton, 217, and John A. Smith, 217. All are from the University of Missouri. They were presented with gold, silver and bronze medals respectively, offered by the Minneapolis Reserve Officers' Corps, Col. A. W. Bjornstad, Commandant at Fort Snelling, presented silver cups to the winners in the following events:

Intercollegiate rifle match, University of Missouri; general efficiency, University of Missouri; best advanced unit, University of Missouri; best basic unit, University of Missouri; corps area pistol match, University of Missouri; corps area rifle match, University of Iowa; track, University of Arkansas, and basketball, Omaha College, Ark. Agricultural College, individual high point man in athletics, was awarded a gold watch.

The six weeks' encampment will close Thursday.

Thousands of People Reduce In Comfort
With Melto

There are still people who take the most strenuous kind of measures to get thin. They torture themselves with all sorts of exercises—they starve themselves—some even go so far as to take internal medicines.

There can be only one reason why people go to strenuous extremes to reduce—they haven't heard of Melto. Melto—the new, delicately fragrant reducing cream—is a revelation to thousands of stout people, especially for the summer. It is the easiest thing in the world to use. All you do is to apply it externally—just to those places where you are too stout—and before you know it, your excess fat will melt away.

What's the use of trying to reduce all over, anyway, if, like most people, you are too stout only in two or three places? Melto reduces you pleasantly, harmlessly, and effectively—just where you want to reduce. Applying it takes less than five minutes a day. And the results are marvelous—as thousands of grateful men and women attest!

Don't suffer another moment from excess fat. Enjoy life this summer! Feel comfortable and cool. Look slender and graceful. Get a jar of Melto today at any drug store or toilet goods counter. It costs only $3, and it lasts a long time.

It's absolutely harmless!
Free—If you want more information on the principles of reducing, write for our free booklet, Melto Laboratories, Dept. H. 111 East 16th St. New York.

To Wear Thin Waists or Sleeveless Dresses

With the aid of a delicate paste, it is an easy matter for any woman to remove every trace of hair or fuzz from face, neck, arms. Enough of the powdered paste and water is rubbed into a thick paste and applied on the hairy surface for about 5 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin is left smooth and clear.

This completely removes the hair, but to avoid disappointment, get the delicate tone in an original package and mix fresh.

BRYAN TOURING SOUTH AGAINST DARWINISM

Succeeds in Interesting Several Legislatures in Plan to Prohibit Teaching Evolution in Schools.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., July 24.—Organization of Southern legislatures against the menace, as he sees it, of the teachings of Darwinism, or agnosticism, in public schools, apparently is the present undertaking of William Jennings Bryan. In the last several months Bryan has visited virtually every general assembly in the South and asked the legislatures to go on record as opposed to the teachings of such doctrines. So far as known, he has had more than fair success.

A measure cropped up in the Georgia assembly yesterday, which, if adopted, would give it as the "sense" of that body against the teaching of all of atheism or agnosticism and, as truth, Darwinism, in any of the State's public institutions. The commoner spoke in behalf of such measures several days ago. When the Florida legislature was in session in April and May, Bryan appeared with a prepared speech against evolution. Prior to his coming a resolution placing that assembly on record as opposed to such teachings in the public schools of that state, had been introduced. It was adopted at one session, but later was retained on the calendar for reconsideration.

When Bryan addressed the legislators they passed it forthwith. He also went before the Arkansas legislature and others.

The resolution as written by Bryan for presentation in the various state assemblies, has been modified and seldom encounters any opposition now. The insertion of the words "as truth" in the reference to the teachings of Darwinism has served to embarrass opposition there.

It is doubtful if more than a few of the institutions in the south teach the doctrines to which Bryan objects, however, he says.

CODES OF ETHICS IN BUSINESS DISCUSSED BY ROTARY LEADERS

New Administration in Caucus on Platform and Program Recently Adopted at St. Louis.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 24.—Rotary leaders from all sections are gathered here for a four-day caucus on the platform and program of the new administration, installed recently at the St. Louis convention.

President Guy Gundaker, Philadelphia, devoted most of the initial session to an outline of the new year's international program to the Board of Directors and district governors from some 40 provinces.

A code of ethics for every line of business was mentioned by Gundaker as one aim which might enlist a prominent place on the Rotary activity list for the year. Common standards built up within various lines during the past decade had worked out to the advantage of both the industry and the public it served, Gundaker declared in urging the extension of the practice to new fields. Codes of conduct, he said, reduced costs, eliminated destructive competition, maintained high standards of trade relationships, protected the public from irresponsible business men and tended generally to the elevation of business principles.

Other possible goals will be considered at daily sessions scheduled until Thursday.

FRENCH WAR TRAGEDY IN SAVOY RECALLED

Memorial Planned for 350 Soldiers Who Died in Railroad Wreck in 1917.

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

GENEVA, July 24.—A monument is planned at Saint-Michel-de-Maurienne in Savoy to 350 soldiers who met their death in a terrible railway catastrophe which happened during the war and which, owing to the censorship, was never reported in the press. It is only now that the facts have become public.

During the night of Dec. 12, 1917, some 500 French soldiers, mostly on leave from the army in Italy, were awaiting in the station at Modenes the train which should take them to France after the terrible battles of the Piave. It steamed in and the men were packed in like herrings. Just as they were about to leave the engine driver pointed out that the load was too heavy for the mountain railway to be traversed, but he was ordered to start. Though inquiry held after the accident showed no one particularly at fault, it was wartime and from top to bottom everyone had obeyed orders.

The heavily weighted train reached the Valley of the Arc, where there is a steep descent with numerous curves, and the driver's fears proved only too well founded. The brakes could not hold the load and with increasing speed the train rushed down the valley. Owing to the heat of the brakes many carriages took fire and some of the soldiers, seeing the danger, leaped into space. They failed, however, to escape death and their bodies, battered by the rocks, strewn the line to the fatal curve where the train overturned.

This happened just before reaching the station of Saint-Michel-de-Maurienne, near a stone bridge. The carriages were piled on one another to the height of the parapet of the bridge, and before help could be obtained the whole was a mass of flames. Of the 500 not 150 escaped. These were taken out more or less seriously injured. The remaining 350 perished and their relatives and friends awaited their return in vain.

RAILROAD'S INCOME INCREASES

Michigan Central Earned $12,818,370 Net During 1933.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 24.—Notwithstanding the serious losses which resulted from the coal miners and shopmen's strikes, net income of the Michigan Central Railroad Co. for 1933 showed a big increase over that of the previous year, the company's annual report discloses.

Gross operating revenue totaled $83,426,407, an increase of more than $10,000,000 over 1932. The net income amounted to $12,818,370, as compared with $7,728,336 the previous year. After paying dividends of $2,623,096, and adding $10,196,174 to surplus, $13,991,448 was carried to profit and loss, increasing that account from $27,110,347, to $26,832,691, after various adjustments. The Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad Co. reported net income for 1933 of $4,332,010 as compared with $2,354,961 in 1932. Dividends paid amounted to $5,598,560, leaving a balance of $13,450, which was carried to profit and loss.

Their growing feet need this freedom

Don't keep children's feet cramped in stiff, hot shoes this summer. Keds will give them just the freedom they need to grow naturally.

You'll find Keds economical, too. They're built sturdily everywhere—uppers of selected canvas, strongly re-inforced—soles of tough, springy, long-wearing rubber.

But remember—Keds are made only by the United States Rubber Company. To get the real Keds value—be sure the name Keds is on the shoe.

LIBEL CASE AGAINST TEXAS
COMMISSIONER IS ON TRIAL
Alleged Campaign Statements About Opponent's Activity During Liberty Bond Drives Involved.
By the Associated Press.
COMMISSIONER, Tex., July 24.—National and State politics, with an echo of high feelings of the World War days, mark proceedings in the case against Congressman Thomas L. Blanton for alleged libel of his war opponent, former Congressman Oscar Callaway.
Charges that politics played an important part in the grand jury indictment and prosecution of Blanton were made almost from the start of the trial yesterday morning when the defense introduced four motions, all of which were overruled by County Judge F. J. Reese. Allegation is made that Blanton published a statement in a Cisco newspaper that his opponent, Callaway, "had advised against the purchase of Liberty Bonds" during the war.

INTER-RACIAL BODY
FOR ST. LOUIS URGED

Negro Newspaper Man Would Have Commission Study Housing Situation.

Formation of an interracial commission, composed of five white persons and five negroes, which would prepare recommendations for amicable adjustment of relations between the races here and would devote itself particularly to the negro housing shortage due to increased migration of negroes from southern states, is being urged by the St. Louis Clarion, a negro newspaper. Officers of the newspaper, C. K. Robinson, president; Roy Lowe, secretary; and J. L. Jones, treasurer, yesterday outlined the campaign. In brief, the suggestion that each negro organization in the city elect one delegate to a conference which, in turn, will elect the five negro members of the interracial commission. The five white members are to be similarly chosen.

"Housing Situation Acute."
"We are seeking to do in St. Louis in advance of any racial trouble what other large cities, particularly Chicago, have found necessary to do after such trouble," Robinson said. "We seek only to find means of peacefully working out the problems affecting racial relations here. Our viewpoint is that of American citizens; we desire to avoid friction between the races which has always resulted in other cities from a heavy increase in the negro population."

"No accurate statistics have been prepared relative to the increase of the negro population here but we know that thousands of negroes have migrated from the South since Jan. 1 and we know that the housing situation is acute. The negro must find additional residential space. It will be one of the tasks of the commission to determine where the negro may go without causing friction with the whites."

Robinson suggests that St. Louis handle the situation much as Philadelphia has done. There representative leaders among the negroes have worked with the Armstrong association, the Travelers Aid, Mercy Hospital and the Philadelphia Housing Association, in an effort to adjust the city to the increased negro population.

NO DEFINITE SUGGESTIONS.
Robinson said he has no definite suggestions as to plans for carrying out his newspaper's campaign. "We are making such suggestions as we see fit in our newspaper with the hope that public sentiment will support us and that thinking persons, both among the whites and colored population, will see the necessity for action and do something," Robinson said.

Officers of the Clarion, however, are taking the matter up personally with negro leaders. They say their plans have been favorably received and they expect negro organizations soon will take steps looking toward the naming of the commission.

BABIES BORN ON IMMIGRANT SHIP WELCOME DESPITE LAW

Commissioner, Ignoring Strict Rule, Says "Law of Innocence" Admits Them.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 24.—"Babies born at sea on vessels flying foreign flags will be admitted to the United States despite 'any dismal old law,'" Immigration Commissioner Henry H. Curran said last night. The Commissioner was led to make this decision because he had two unique cases which called for a precedent.

Sofia Praygon, of Polish stock, was born to Mrs. Sofia Praygon on July 15 while the S. S. Lapland was bound for America. Being born on a British vessel she came under the quota of that country, which was exhausted.

Irene Troyanoski, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Photo Troyanoski, Poles, who had declared their intention of becoming Americans and who were returning from a visit to their native land, first saw the light of day on the Belgianland. She was placed under the Belgianland quota.

"I looked at those two little babies in their cradles," said Mr. Curran. "and when they gripped my fingers and pleaded their cause, why, I didn't need any special court of inquiry—just saw there was something bigger and finer than any dismal old law and that I could use but one law in settling their case. So I called the law the 'high law of innocence.'" tenanted for the first time in 20 years; and for the first time in the history of the county Criminal Court there are no cases on the emergency docket. Clerk John H. Passmore revealed today in making public a review of the past 10 months' work of the court.

RAIL REORGANIZATION FOUGHT
D. & R. G. W. Shareholders and Bond Owners Organize.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 24.—New plans to block the reorganization of the Denver and Rio Grande Western were announced yesterday. A bondholders' committee has been organized to operate in connection with the Stockholders' Protective Committee and notices have been mailed to more than 6000 persons believed to hold bonds. In these notices the bondholders were invited to join with the stockholders in "waging a fight for their rights."

"We shall use every legal means within our power," said A. G. Rogers, counsel for the stockholders' committee, to block the recently announced plan of reorganization of the Denver and Rio Grande Western. In that plan, no provision was made for the stockholders, and the bondholders were not sufficiently provided for."

Bad Complexions Now Removed by Absorption
It has been found that ordinary skin cream has the power to absorb old, faded or discolored complexion more literally, the old cream, or skin cream, absorbing the pink of life and the glow of youth. The dead and faded complexion comes off so gradually, in four-like flakes, that there is no redness, no discomfort, no stinging from such everyday duties. Of course such troubles as freckles, moths, patches, liver spots, and red lines, go with the discolored skin. Marcellized wax, which draws deeply in one-once time, should be applied lightly over the face before retiring and washed off in the morning.

FILIPINOS DEMAND WOOD BE RECALLED

Both Houses of Legislature
Unanimous in Resolution Addressed to Harding

By the Associated Press.
MANILA, July 24.—President
Harding's response to a formal demand by the Legislature here last night, that Governor-General Leonard Wood be recalled at once, is awaited as the next important development in the political strife
which resulted last week in resignation of the entire personnel of the Philippine Cabinet and Council of State.

The recall demand was contained in a resolution adopted without a dissenting vote at a joint meeting of both houses of the Legislature.
All the parties took part in the vote, which indorsed the stand taken by the Cabinet when its members quit in a body.

Gov. Wood is in the province of Samar inspecting health conditions.
Smouldering hostility between Filipino officials and Governor-General Wood was rekindled recently by the Governor's reinstatement of Ray Conley, American head of the Philippine secret service, after the latter had been officially absolved of charges of bribery. This led to the resignation of Jose P. Laurel, Secretary of the Interior, who had accused Conley.

Then followed numerous sessions of heads of the political parties, and finally, on July 17, members of the Cabinet and Council of State, headed by Manuel Quezon, President of the Senate and principal foe of the Wood administration, went in a group to the Governor-General's office and presented their formal resignations, which were accepted.

While Lew Didn't Win the Lightweight Championship, He Got $75,000 in Lieu Thereof

Leonard Easily Beats Tendler, but Fails to Put Challenger Away

His Crown Undisturbed

Crowd Estimated at 65,000 Sees Champion Batter Philadelphia for Fourteen Rounds—No Clean Knockdown Scored.

By Heywood Brown.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Benny Leonard was a crown and his head isn't in the least uneasy. The lightweight champion fits him more snugly than ever, for he gave Lew Tendler a terrible beating before 65,000 fans at the Yankee stadium last night. Almost from the beginning the thousands shouted and begged and screamed for a knockout.

Benny couldn't do it, although he came close in the last two rounds. Tendler's nose and mouth were bloody and he reeled but did not fall. Only once in the entire fight did the challenger go down, and that was only indirectly the result of a punch.

Leonard nailed Tendler in the thirteenth and had him so groggy that, in trying to return the punch, he fell to his knees. Andy Green, the referee, was so slow in rubbing the rosin off the fallen fighter's glove that his head had a chance to clear.

The wonder is that Tendler still has a head. Rights and lefts, hooks and jabs, rocked it from the beginning. Water cascaded from the top of the Philadelphia's pompadour as if he had been Old Faithful, the geyser. Now his head went back. Next it sagged, but mostly it wobbled from side to side as Leonard landed first with one hand and then with the other.

Nor was there any rest for the neck of Tendler, when he came to his corner. Phil Glasman, manager of the challenger, had a peculiar method of first aid. He would seize Tendler's head in both hands at the end of every round and shake it from side to side.

Lew's Head Still on Straight. Perhaps he wanted to convince his manager that he still had a head and that it remained attached as usual. Or perhaps his theory was that he would make the Leonard treatment seem mild in comparison with the rest periods.

Only one phase of the fight bothered Leonard and Tendler was not concerned with this danger which threatened the champion. To be frank about it, Benny's Yale blue

On Points, Tendler's Showing Is Like That of a Republican in Mississippi

As far as the point score went, Tendler might as well have been a Republican in Mississippi. It would be fair, possibly, to give him an even break in the first round; the next 14, as we saw in the fight, were rounds toward the end in which Tendler did not land a single clean blow. In the fourth Lew hit hard with a left to Benny's head, but the blow was a little high and it merely served to lay Leonard for a second. With that one exception Tendler never hurt the champion.

Benny Shows Flirt Defense. Most of his punches met glove or elbow, and if they did manage to get through, Benny was stepping away or had nullified the force of the attack by partly blocking it.

From the first round through the fifteenth, Tendler seemed to be a man who had gone in to make a show. Leonard was out to win. In the interval between the desperate battle about a year ago the moral ascendancy in some way or other passed over to Leonard.

Tendler did not force the going last night. It was Leonard who set the pace. The slope-shouldered challenger seemed the stronger man physically and yet Leonard moved him about where he wished in every clinch and fairly pushed him into an unfavorable position, each time in breaking away.

It may be that Leonard hit harder, once upon a time, for solid socks to the jaw did not drop Tendler, but the champion never boxed better. All his old footwork was on display.

He stepped in and out and reached

"Crowd Paid $400,000 to See About $368 Worth of Blows Struck," Perry

NEW YORK, July 24.

ONE reason why New York annually receives the unanimous vote of the fraternity of confidence men as the best all-year-round resort in the country, was made clear at the Yankee stadium here upon the occasion of the battle between Leonard and Tendler," according to Lawrence Perry, a widely known sports commentator. "Some 65,000 paid some $400,000 or more to see Tendler receive a boxing lesson."

"Neither was materially discomfited in the process of enhancing his already obese bank account. After this great championship 'battle,' the public should dismiss any notion it has entertained as to the brutality of pugilism, particularly when champions and near-champions are involved."

"One might say that last night's crowd received perhaps $368 worth of punches in return for $400,000 of money. Which is fair enough as these little bouts have been going."

His rights were too loose. Again and again Leonard would have to pull up his trunks.

He wanted to knock out Tendler, and he was willing to violate proprieties in doing it. Even a pugilist is not altogether averse to the restraining inhibitions of the Puritan conscience.

His mark just as easily when he advanced as when he retreated. Tendler's occasional rushes were just to Benny's taste. Sometimes he blocked and again he destroyed the aim of Lew by beating him to his back.

Tendler's desperate efforts hurt the slugger more than they hurt Leonard, for when he swung Benny ducked and the force of the blow bounced off his head. Benny helped him back and refrained from punching until his opponent was well inside the ring.

Leonard boxed beautifully, as has been said, and it was all solid, substantial boxing without fireworks. He indulged in no mere bravura passages of arms. His whole demeanor was serious and businesslike.

It was no laughing matter. Even when Tendler missed by yards, Leonard refrained from smiling. Throughout he kept his mouth tightly pursed as if he was in a room with some one whom he did not like.

There were a few verbal spats between the men during the course of the fight. Leonard complained once that Leonard was hitting low. Leonard seemed to be no justice in the claim and both the referee and Benny so answered.

At the end the contenders greeted each other cordially enough. Leonard came to the ropes and said: "He's a good boy."

"He was too much for me," said Tendler to the patrons on the other side.

Tendler Ought To Make a Good Hosiery Salesman; He Took Leonard's Socks and Made $75,000 Out of Them

Referee Stops to Wipe Resin Off Lew's Glove, Leonard Says

Just Before, Had Gone to the Floor Due to Weakness and a Missed Swing—Halt Gave Him Time to Recover—"Better Man Won," Tendler Admits.

By the Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, July 24.—"Well, I'm still the lightweight champion of the world," said Leonard today to a Post-Dispatch representative. "I guess I will admit I was easily. When I shook hands with Lew Tendler, I said, 'This is from the heart.'"

In the last three rounds of the fifteen-round bout, he said, "Benny, you're a better man than I am. I tried to end it with a punch, but he almost at will, but I just reached the button with a punch."

The thirteenth round was exciting and I would have liked him had not referee Griffin stop time to wipe the resin off his glove after he had been on one foot for a while.

I did not knock him down because he missed a punch and was weak. I was waiting for a chance to knock him out. I landed a right and left in the one-two style and he fell. I thought I had the better of it.

I told him to watch out. I kept rushing him. It was as though he was sacrificing to land one haymaker. In the close of the round, after a exchange, I nearly dropped with a right cross. Lew was under at the bell.

The fourth round was a corker. I backed me with two good lefts. I landed unexpected punches that surprised me with my southpaw.

Leonard, Still a Great Tactician, Is Losing Punch

Fight With Tendler Proves His Generalship, Also His Waning Power, Critics Say.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Benny Leonard, one of the most skillful ring men of all time, looks the lightweight scepter today with no real challenger in sight.

The titleholder removed the most dangerous menace to his throne last night when he felled and battered Lew Tendler, Philadelphia southpaw, into overwhelming defeat in a 15-round match at the Yankee stadium. Decisively outpunching his rival from the start, Leonard had Tendler on the verge of a knockout with a slashing, whirlwind attack in the last three rounds. There was no question of his superiority at any stage of the fight.

More than 500 fans who contributed a record lightweight "gate" of over $400,000, according to estimates of promoters, saw Leonard whip Tendler for the second time within a year, this time by a far more decisive margin than last July at Boyle's Thirty Acres, where Tendler, at the height of his form, battered the champion on close to even terms.

Leonard Losing His Punch. Leonard, who is now in his seventh year as lightweight king, has lost a trifle of the power behind his blows most critics believe, but as a tactician, he holds a place among the greatest of the ring has ever known.

It was this cool confidence that had Tendler baffled almost from the start. Leonard had carefully mapped his plan of battle against Tendler's peculiar southpaw style. Anticipating Lew's attack, Leonard turned it back, and when the challenger tried rushing, he found a shifty, brilliant defense that mocked his most furious efforts.

Tendler, in the opinion of many experts, measured far below the form he previously displayed against Leonard. This view probably was due to a large extent to the fact that Leonard outguessed and, as a result, outfought him every step of the way. Seldom was he able to bring into action his famous left jab. Now and then he landed it to Leonard's body or head, never losing his remarkable poise meanwhile. Leonard kept up a steady fire that gradually wore down the challenger.

Once Tendler slipped from a succession of head and body blows in the thirteenth round, the most thrilling of the bout, but he jumped up and managed to weather the storm. Again in the fourteenth and fifteenth he was forced back under a whirlwind drive, groggy and bleeding from nose and mouth.

Leonard, in round figures, will receive about $175,000, based on his 25-per-cent share of the estimated receipts of nearly a half million. Tendler, guaranteed 15 per cent, will get about $75,000.

Americans Lose Fencing Title. British Team Captures Thompson Trophy, 24 Points to 22.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 24.—The British fencing team last night won of the Robert M. Thompson trophy from the American team, which came across seas to defend it. The final score was Great Britain 24, United States 22.

The Britons gained possession of the trophy when they won the saber match, the third match of the competition, 10 points to 6. Last week, the Americans defeated the Englishmen in the foil, 11 to 5, and in the epee contest the Englishmen won nine out of the 14 bouts.

Last night Arthur S. Lyon, New York Fencers' Club, with a fast attack and fine footwork, won all four of his bouts, but none of the other Americans could do even so well as to break even. The American team was made up of Lyon, Warrant, Officer John Diamond, U. S. N. L. M. Schoonmaker, New York Fencers' Club, and C. R. McPherson, New York Athletic Club. The British team comprised W. Hamlyn, Lieut. C. A. Korshaw, A. H. Corbie and E. Seligman.

Diamond defeated Seligman, but lost to his other three opponents. McPherson won from Corbie, but also lost to his other three adversaries; while Schoonmaker lost all four of his matches.

CHICAGO SLOOP WINS MACKINAC YACHT RACE. By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Intruder, a small sloop, during the colors of the Jackson Park Yacht Club, Chicago, and owned and sailed by John James and Edward O'Rourke, early today won the sixteenth annual 331-mile yacht race for the Mackinac Cup in 14 hours, 21 minutes, corrected time, according to a dispatch received at the Chicago Yacht Club from the Racing Committee.

WICHITA FALLS PLAYER HURT BY PITCHED BALL. WICHITA FALLS, Tex., July 24.—The Spudders' long list of injured players grew this afternoon when Denver Grigby, star outfielder and slugger, was knocked unconscious by a pitched ball in the fourth inning of the game against Beaumont. Eberhardt was pitching for the Exporters. It is feared Grigby's skull is fractured. Both are Texas League teams.

Charley White About the Only Lightweight Who Might Make It Interesting.

By Fair Play.

(Copyright 1923.) NEW YORK, July 24.—Champion Benny Leonard's next opponent, according to all the dope, will be Mickey Walker, welterweight champion. His lightweight future, except perhaps for Charley White, is an aching void.

As a fight last night's battle was even tamer than some of the shrewd followers of the political and business of the ring game thought it would be. It looked as though Tendler had faded and that his hands, especially his left, had been rendered unfit for hard punching.

Tendler was slow and never was his judgment so faulty since he began fighting. He was short in his punches from the first to the fifteenth and when he landed the blows were of the cream puff variety.

Leonard got in some hard punches occasionally, but he kept them distributed sufficiently to insure Lewis presence in the ring when the 15th round ended.

The champion's footwork was more like the old Leonard footwork than anything he has shown in years; either that or Lew was so

Buenos Aires Project Gets the Air; Rickard After Polo Grounds

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 24. PROSPECTS of the early completion of negotiations for a Jack Dempsey-Luis Firpo heavyweight title match were brighter as a result of a lengthy conference yesterday between promoter Tex Rickard, Jack Kearns, the champion's manager, Firpo and his trainer, Jimmy de Forrest. Although Rickard has withheld any definite information as to the date and site of the proposed match, it was believed he was arranging to stage it at the Polo Grounds around Labor Day, if present efforts to effect a working agreement with the Polo Grounds A. C. succeeded.

It was indicated that the promoter had practically abandoned his recent proposal to take the match to Buenos Aires, believing the financial risk too great.

He showed that anything he didn't know about Lew's left-handed style of fighting last year—and it seemed to be a lot—had been supplied to him. All in all, as a title bout one word describes it—brawl.

WRAY BROWN TO PLAY IN WESTERN NET TOURNAMENT

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 24.—Tennis stars from the Middle West will compete here Saturday in the 37th annual Western championship meet, for which pairings are being made. Johnny Hennessey of Indianapolis, titleholder, Walter Weesbrook, Detroit, and Wray Brown, St. Louis, are among those who will take part in the meet. Brown is holder of Missouri Valley title.

Weesbrook and Hennessey, holders of the doubles title, will be defenders in that event. Walter Hayes, former titleholder, and other Chicago net luminaries, will open a preliminary among local players previous to the tournament matches.

Details of the evidence the St. Louis Police Department is expected to present in its fight to prevent the opening of a new insurance company in St. Louis, under for rate reductions which would reduce Missouri fire insurance rates $2,000,000 a year, was the opening statement of E. J. Foland, attorney for the St. Louis Police Department, in his opening statement in the opening statement of the case taken in testimony in the testimony was published in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch yesterday.

R. J. Foland, attorney for the St. Louis Police Department, in his opening statement in the opening statement of the case taken in testimony in the testimony was published in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch yesterday.

Underwriting profit or loss defined, "is that profit or loss which arises from the immediate and direct conduct of the business of insurance company in writing of insurance, taking into the acquisition cost, the cost of doing that activity or the sum, such as expense of field overhead expense, the direct in the way of agency commission which is perhaps the largest single item of expense; take account the losses which are out of the premiums so from their business."

Losses actually paid, and incurred losses, and expense actually paid, nor incurred expense should be figured. An earned premium is an estimate or conjecture based on another estimate. Expenses are allocated to the cost of the business from all over the State. Profits ought to be figured, whether they are writing profits or banking profits.

In handling the business of insurance, the company should reserve the company as trustee, have no interest in speculative and real estate. Losses must be by the stockholders and the policyholders. Excessive and discriminations are paid to shareholders in St. Louis, which is the case of all the fire insurance companies in Missouri. Commissions are from 10 to 15 per cent higher than elsewhere in the State.

The expenses of marine insurance are apportioned to Missouri though no marine insurance is written in the State. Auto collision insurance is charged, although the State does not authorize that the rate on fire insurance be considered in determining the rate on fire insurance. There is an unfair allocation of expense.

Answer to Loss Statement. It has been stated that the writing loss is 15 per cent of their bookkeeping methods, in State, which would not underwriting loss. Figuring their profits on stock allocated to Missouri was a profit of 20 per cent. There were investments banking profits of 22 per cent. Their total profit was 12 per cent. If the present rate of interest for the next five years will run as high as 10 per cent. In their method of doing business, the companies are not concerned with what their loss is. They are concerned only with volume of business. At inflated values risks were without regard to values. Inspection, and there was a variance in a reckless sense. When values fell there were fires and arson where. The companies must under the moral hazard.

SUPERB MUSIC, POOR BOOK IN 'GYPSY LOVE'

Lehar Operetta Is Capitally Sung, Played and Mounted at Municipal Theater.

By RICHARD L. STOKES.
SPEAKING of operatic composition, Giuseppe Verdi cried: "A libretto, a libretto, and the thing is done!" He might have added that without a libretto all is undone. There is, for instance, "Gypsy Love," an operetta scored by Franz Lehar, composer of "The Merry Widow." "Gypsy Love" had its first presentation last night at the open-air theater in Forest Park, before an audience of average Monday evening dimensions.

The opinion of connoisseurs is that this music excels that of "The Merry Widow" in depth of melody, vitality of rhythm and intricacy of workmanship. It was, for the most part, admirably sung by principals and chorus, and the musical drama, proceeding in the orchestra pit often was more thrilling than that of the stage.

Several spectacles were arranged, set, costumed and lighted. Yet the audience was the most pliant and gathered at the Municipal Theater. With the best will in the world for enthusiasm, it sat as if stunned by the abysmal fatuity of the book.

It is well known that when a New York producer gets his clutches on an important opera, he falls upon it with homicidal glee and adapts it to Broadway culture. This may be lots of fun for the producer; it also largely accounts, in the judgment of constant observers, for the present decline of light opera.

How It May First Have Been. WHAT indignities the book written by A. M. Willner and Robert Benady may have suffered at the hands of Harry B. and Robert B. Smith it is impossible to say, owing to the inaccessibility of the original. But instinct inspires a surmise that, as first conceived, this was a story of an imaginative girl reared rather by woods and rivers than by her eccentric father—a maid at heart for adventure and romance, who flees her betrothal, and follows into the wilderness the wild, intoxicating strains of a gypsy melody. After a time she is cast aside by her Roman lover, and then she dies in the conventional circle she had despised.

Whatever one thinks of the moral of this narrative, it at least has possibilities of human emotion. But some one, in awe of certain taboos, hit upon the idea of bowdlerizing the gypsy episode by turning it into something but a dream. To be sure, this device enables the author to return unscathed to the arms of her fiancé; but it also strips the action of every vestige of sympathy. One cannot feel pity for imaginary misadventures of human emotion. But some one, in awe of certain taboos, hit upon the idea of bowdlerizing the gypsy episode by turning it into something but a dream. To be sure, this device enables the author to return unscathed to the arms of her fiancé; but it also strips the action of every vestige of sympathy. One cannot feel pity for imaginary misadventures of human emotion.

Music Worth Hearing. There was a French composer who, as a wager, set the stock market report of a newspaper to thrilling music. The brilliant Herr Lehar supplied melodies and harmonies for "Gypsy Love" which for their own sake are worth a visit to the Municipal Theater this week. The mere subject, that of gypsy life, was sufficient to set his music to leaping with savage and exotic rhythms, and with "native woodnotes wild" which twitter pastorally in the orchestra, with love songs, comely ditties, and fiery, thunderous choruses. The finale of the second act is of grand opera proportions.

The principal singing parts are splendidly delivered by Craig Campbell and Miss Blanche Duffield, with competent assistance from Miss Helma Morrill, Miss Dorothy Maynard, Thomas Conkey and Detmar Poppert. Frank Moulan has the most thankless of all his roles as a beauty expert engaged in rejuvenating an ancient beau—this was before the discoveries of modern science—by means of a powder puff, a toupee and dried catfishes. Miss Maynard and Roland Woodruff are reduced to pleasanties over a perambulator containing twins, and to kissing each other off in turn by way of subtle exits. William J. McCarthy is the withered Don Juan. There are occasional quips which bring hints of laughter. Moulan sings McCarthy surrounded by girls. "I hired you to make me young," cries McCarthy, "but not Brigham Young," counters Moulan. Perhaps the best passage between the comedians was impromptu repartee which did not take his part seriously enough to make up for it on a hot night, and appeared as a sort of freak gypsy, with blond hair and skin.

Social News

GOING TO WISCONSIN

MRS. WILLIAM RECKOR BRASHEAR.

A social event of the Northern Michigan resort region took place yesterday when Miss Dorothy Pilot, granddaughter of Mrs. Theodore Prewitt of the Oxford apartments, St. Louis, became the bride of John Hill McKinney. The ceremony was performed at noon at the summer home of Mrs. Joseph Dickson Sr., a close friend of Mrs. Prewitt. The Rev. Dr. Plummer Bryan of Chicago, who for years has spent his summers in Wequetonsing, officiated.

The bride's gown was of rose point lace and Canton crepe, made with an apronlike effect of the lace, and a long court train. Her tulle veil was held in place by orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas and baby's breath. Her father, Peter Stuyvesant Pilot of New York, gave her away.

Miss Rosalie Pilot, also of New York, as her sister's maid of honor, was dressed in pale pink forget-me-nots with a lace hat, and carried a shower of blue snapdragons and blue delphiniums. Dorothy Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Temple Robinson of Louisville, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Her frock was pink georgette, and her flowers snapdragons and delphiniums, arranged in a basket. Henry Cushman of St. Louis was best man.

The guests included a number from out-of-town and a large part of the St. Louis colonies at Wequetonsing, where Mrs. McKinney has spent the summers since a child, and at Harbor Point. Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at small tables on the lawn, with a bridal table adorned with sweet peas, maiden hair fern and baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. McKinney have gone to Mackinac Island for their honeymoon, and after a motor trip to the resorts, will take an apartment in St. Louis in September.

Mr. and Mrs. McKinney met in Wequetonsing a year ago. Their wedding was the most elaborate in Northern Michigan since the Harbor Point affair of six years ago, when Miss Catherine Barker, heiress of the Haskell Barker car shops and known as the "$30,000,000 girl," was married to Howard Spaulding Jr., of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lynden Bagley of 5385 Pershing avenue, are giving up their apartment and will move to the Gatesworth Hotel in a month.

Miss Emma Cosher of 2930 Henrietta street, will depart August 1 to visit Mrs. Paul Y. Tupper of St. Louis at her summer home on Chesapeake Bay, Maryland. Dr. Tupper will join his wife later in August for three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul B. Jamison of 6349 Washington boulevard and their children, Miss Elizabeth and Paul Jr., are on a motor trip East. At present they are at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Bayle Jr. of 6822 Pershing avenue, will depart this week for Boston and resorts on the Massachusetts coast.

Mrs. Frank M. Roberts of the Westmoreland Hotel, and daughter, Miss Mimi, have gone to Atlantic City for the summer.

Miss Elizabeth Cuendet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene R. Cuendet of 4 Hortense place, has gone to Buffalo for a fortnight's visit before joining her parents and sister at Rye Beach, N. H.

Miss Emily Milliken, 4915 Lindell boulevard, will depart in August to join her mother, Mrs. John T. Milliken, in a visit to relatives on a Colorado ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Garrison, of the Chase Apartments, will depart this week to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Overton Watts at their summer home at Wequetonsing, Mich. Later, they will visit Mrs. Garrison's mother, Mrs. Billingsley, at her cottage. Mr. and Mrs. Watts have as guests their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones Jr., and their infant.

Mrs. Boyle Price of 4937 Laclede avenue, and daughter, Jane, will depart Sunday to visit Mrs. William Ewing, who has a cottage in Michigan.

MONROE'S NEW YORK HOUSE STILL STANDS

It Is Hoped to Dedicate It as Memorial on Centenary of Monroe Doctrine.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 24.—One hundred years ago next December, President James Monroe of the United States of America promulgated the doctrine that still bears his name.

In the hope of celebrating the anniversary of that event by announcing that the house in which Monroe lived for a time and where he died, July 4, 1831, is to be saved from destruction, restored as a memorial, prominent men and women of New York have completed the organization of the James Monroe Memorial Association and Foundation, and issued a pamphlet setting forth their plans.

The house, which, until recently, has been occupied by rag-pickers, is at the corner of Prince and Lafayette streets. Its bricks are crusted with grime and ancient paint, like some scaly disease. Its shutters are torn away and its windows are dim and bleary. The railings are gone from the steps, the panes are broken in the dormers; a huge advertisement covers half of the end of the house; a "For Sale" sign darkens the upper part of one window; and the outline of the once beautiful doorway, with fluted columns and pilasters below its graceful arch of stone, are obscured by the sign of a firm of carpenters.

To carry out the plans of the association, which include the purchase and restoration of the house and collection of memorabilia from North, South and Central America, will require, it is said, a fund of about $300,000. The association is appealing to all Americans to help in the undertaking. It is hoped that in view of the interest which the memorial will have for South and Central American States they will join in the enterprise.

Not only will the home be the repository of valuable historical data and the center of important activities, says the pamphlet just issued, "but it will be made doubly valuable as a lesson in history by its location on one of the main routes into the east side of New York, where thousands of men, women and children fresh from Europe pass every day."

Temporary headquarters of the association are at 233 Broadway. President Harding and Secretary Hughes have accepted honorary founder membership.

MRS. RUSSELL'S APPEAL IN DIVORCE TRIED IN LONDON

Son That Her Husband Asserted Was Not His In Danger of Losing Title Succession.

(Copyright, 1923, by the Press and Publishing Co., the New York World and the Post-Dispatch.)
LONDON, July 24.—Trial of Mrs. Christabel Hulme Russell's appeal from the divorce granted last March to the Hon. John Hugo Russell, on the ground of misconduct, opened here yesterday.

Russell is the oldest son of Baron Amthill. He says that the son born to Mrs. Russell is not his. A jury agreed with him, thus striking a blow at the child's chance of succession to the Amthill title, which will be his, however, unless he is finally adjudged illegitimate.

This is the third trial of the case. In July, 1922, Russell accused his wife of adultery. The jury acquitted her in two cases, but disagreed about the third. One correspondent was named in the second trial and another was not named. The jury found Mrs. Russell guilty in one case.

TO ONE HOSPITAL SATURDAY
Ceremonies at Missouri Pacific Institution to Continue Sunday.

The formal opening of the new hospital of the Missouri Pacific Railroad employees on Grand boulevard and Shaw avenue, will take place Saturday and Sunday. The program will begin at 2:30 p. m., Saturday, with music by a quartet and orchestra, and singing of the national anthem. There will be addresses by President L. W. Baldwin and J. J. White, vice president and general solicitor of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, and H. J. Mohler, president of the Missouri Pacific Hospital Association. A dance will take place on the roof garden in the evening.

Luncheon will be prepared in the kitchen of the new hospital building and be served in the dining room. The general offices of the Missouri Pacific, dressed as nurses, will act as ushers. Letters have been sent to officers and department heads asking them to be present. Four carloads of furniture for the building arrived last week, making a total of 10 already received, and two more are to be delivered this week. There are now 115 patients at the old hospital building at California and Eads avenues, who will be removed to the new building.

WILL ASK EDUCATION BOARD TO APPOINT "VISITING TEACHER"

Dr. Bliss to Suggest Acceptance of New York Offer to Pay Two-Thirds of Salary.

Dr. M. A. Bliss, president of the Missouri Society for Social Hygiene, said yesterday that he would appear before the Board of Education at its next meeting to suggest that the Board avail itself of the offer of the Commonwealth Fund of New York to pay two-thirds of the salary of a "visiting teacher" if the Board would pay the remaining one-third.

A visiting teacher serves as a sort of liaison officer between the school and the home. It is her duty to search out the causes contributing to backwardness of children in school.

"If a child, because of physical or mental twists cannot progress as normal children in its grade, it is much easier to correct the twists when the child is young than later when it becomes 'set,'" Dr. Bliss said. The investigations of a visiting teacher would discuss the twists and suggest the remedy.

Funeral of Gustav Oppenheimer.
The funeral of Gustav Oppenheimer, 53 years old, secretary of the Rosenbaum Millinery Co., who died Saturday at 8 a. m. of heart trouble, was held today under Masonic auspices from Temple Israel to Mount Sinai Cemetery. Oppenheimer had been ill several months. His widow, a brother and sister survive. He resided at the Del Monte Hotel.

FORMER FRENCH PREMIER DIES

Charles Dupuy Was Present When Carnot Was Stabbed. By the Associated Press.

PERPIGNAN, France, July 24.—Charles Alexandre Dupuy, former Premier, is dead. He was President of the Chamber of Deputies when the anarchist Vaillant threw a bomb at him, and his courageous bearing and historic words, "Gentlemen, the sitting continues," gained him great fame. He was born in 1851. He was Premier in 1894 and was with President Carnot when the latter was stabbed to death at Lyons.

Mayor Proclaims Week of July 29 Anti-Narcotic Week

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, MAYOR'S OFFICE, ST. LOUIS.

A PROCLAMATION.

The alarming increase in the number of drug addicts in the United States has become so great that the National, State and City Governments, together with the social agencies, health departments and hygienic societies, have recognized this appalling condition to the extent of concentrating their forces toward the elimination of this most wrecking influence upon the social and business life of the United States.

The many ways in which the great majority of these poor unfortunates find themselves confirmed drug addicts makes it necessary for the message to be carried to the rising generation of the horror of the habit and to warn them against the commencement of it.

In view of this fact there will be displayed at the Kings Theater, during the week of July 28, the picture "Human Wreckage," written by Mrs. Wallace Reid, and giving to the country the real condition under which her husband, the eminent stage star, Wallace Reid, surrendered his life. Mrs. Reid will be at the Theater in person the week of July 29.

Acting for and on behalf of the youth of the City of St. Louis, and desiring that they have this message brought to them with all the force that is possible for the cinematic art to portray, I, Henry W. Kiel, Mayor of the City of St. Louis, do hereby proclaim the week of July 29 as Anti-Narcotic Week and request that as many of the citizens as possible avail themselves of the opportunity of viewing this educational film.

LOAN OF $25,000,000 SOUGHT BY MEXICO

Plan Is to Establish Federal Reserve System Patterned On That of U. S.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.
NEW YORK, July 24.—American, French, Spanish and Mexican bankers are negotiating for a new Mexican loan of approximately $25,000,000. The money, if obtained, will be used to establish a Mexican Federal Reserve system, patterned after that of this country, the Mexican Government being desirous of circulating about 100,000,000 pesos. The notes already have been printed.

The plan is said to involve lending of the money to the Mexican Government by banks of France and Spain, Wall Street, in turn, lending the money to the European interests. Augustino Legoretta, head of the National Bank of Mexico, is conducting the negotiations for his country. He arrived Saturday from France, bearing, it is reported, the approval of foreign bankers. Dispatches printed recently in Mexican newspapers have indicated the money has been promised.

Legoretta spent yesterday consulting representatives of J. P. Morgan & Co., Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and other international bankers. Similar meetings are scheduled for today. He hopes to return to Mexico with a definite agreement not later than Thursday. This is said to indicate that the plan is being favorably received in Wall Street.

APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVER FOR STOCK PROMOTERS DEFERRED

Philadelphia Concerns Paid Dividends to Companies Not Earning Money, Witness Testifies.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, July 24.—The R. R. Dillings Co., stock promoters, and the International Note and Mortgage Co., paid dividends to stockholders of their subsidiary companies, though these companies were not earning money, Mont Leaky, vice president and general manager of the R. L. Dillings Co. of Pennsylvania, testified at a hearing in the United States District Court yesterday for the appointment of a receiver.

Judge Dickinson continued the case until tomorrow and issued a preliminary injunction restraining the officers of the Pennsylvania Co. from conducting any business or handling the books, papers, records or other company property.

The appointment of a receiver was postponed until proper notices might be given the receivers of the Dillings Co. of Columbus, O. Judge Dickinson declared.

RADIO SET FOR DEATH HOUSE

Condemned Persons at Sing Sing to Be Entertained.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, July 24.—A radio set will be installed in the death house at Sing Sing to give the condemned their last contact with the outside world.

The idea originated with the chief electrician at the prison and was sponsored by Capt. J. Shephard of the Salvation Army. Warden Lawes endorsed the idea and yesterday Capt. Shephard announced that an outfit had been presented to the death house by David Baronoff, general manager of the radio corporation of America.

Good-bye Wrinkles!

Marvelous New Cream Lifts Them Right Away!

Scientists have perfected a sensational new beauty formula—which actually lifts away tired lines and wrinkles, revealing an entirely new and wonderfully youthful complexion!

This new discovery is in the form of a fragrant cream. It seems to possess almost magical qualities, for all you need to do is press a small quantity into the wrinkles to be removed, let it remain for a short while, remove it, then note the results!

No matter how long you have been troubled with wrinkles—no matter how deep seated they may be—you will actually be astonished at how quickly they are banished by this new beautifier, called

PROSECUTOR SLAIN IN GERMAN DISORDERS

Reader's Correspondent Says Victim's Wife and Father Were Beaten by Frankfurt Mob.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, July 24.—Reuter's Berlin correspondent confirms reports of communist disturbances in Frankfurt. He says it was the public prosecutor, Dr. Haas, who was killed yesterday, and that his wife and father also were maltreated.

Dr. Haas' wife and father were injured while the prosecutor's private residence was being ransacked, and Dr. Haas himself was so severely beaten that he succumbed to his injuries. The police eventually restored order.

In view of the seriousness of the situation, Gov. Noske of Hanover Province, Northwestern Germany, has prohibited all open-air meetings of any kind next Sunday, the correspondent says.

In response to an appeal from the Social Democratic and Communist parties and the trade unions about 100,000 persons demonstrated yesterday against "usury and fascism," the Reuter message says. After the meeting of the demonstrators adjourned, collisions with the police occurred in various parts of town. All the shops, the message adds, were closed.

METHODIST UNIFICATION PLAN BEFORE JOINT COMMISSION

General Conferences of Northern and Southern Branches Must Pass on Proposal.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., July 24.—A plan, which it is believed will ultimately result in the union of the Methodist Episcopal Church and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, divided in 1844 over the question of slavery, was ready for presentation to the joint commission on unification at the opening session of its four-day meeting here today.

The results of the meeting will not be made public, it was said, until the plan had been submitted to the general conference of each branch, the second of which will not be held until 1936.

The plan was prepared by a joint committee of 16, the members of which are confident that it will be accepted, according to Bishop William F. Anderson of Cincinnati.

"We are confident that we have really hit upon a plan which will accomplish the object for which we have been striving since 1910," Bishop Anderson said. "Our differences are administrative rather than doctrinal. I am sure our plan will enable our two branches to dovetail perfectly."

On the other hand, Bishop John K. Moore of Dallas, Tex., believes there will be no unification until "racial differences can be ironed out," which will probably be several years. Prejudice still exists in some degree between the North and the South, he said.

CAUGHT 32 YEARS AFTER ESCAPE

Prisoner Will Be Taken Back to North Carolina Penitentiary.

By the Associated Press.

NEWTON, N. C., July 24.—Well dressed and prosperous in appearance and claiming to have traveled all over the world, Dan Brinkley was arrested at Claremont, near here, today, as an escaped convict. He escaped 32 years ago from the North Carolina penitentiary, where he was serving a 10-year term for robbery. He admitted his identity to officers and will be taken to the penitentiary at Raleigh.

PROGRESSIVES FOR JOHNSON

Chicago Meeting Launches Johnson-for-President Club.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 24.—The Progressive Alliance of America, meeting here last night, launched a campaign for 3,000,000 members by the first of November to further the election of Senator Hiram Johnson as President. "Our slogan is Hiram Johnson for President," N. C. Bond, chairman of the meeting said. "We have 10,000 members now, but we want to make it 3,000,000 by Nov. 1."

ANTI-MASK BILL IN GEORGIA

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 24.—Wearing masks in public would be forbidden, and the names of all members of secret and fraternal organizations would be ordered listed with County Court officials, under a measure introduced in the Georgia House of Representatives yesterday. The bill is identical with a measure presented earlier in the session which has not been brought out by committee.

A RICH OLD SENTIMENTALIST

Sir John B. Robinson is one of the richest men of South Africa. He made his millions in the diamond fields. His collection of paintings in London was considered one of the best private ones in England. Because of climatic conditions he could not take them to South Africa, fearing the paint would peel, and his priceless Rubens and Gainsboroughs be ruined. On account of his rheumatism, he could not live with them in London. So he decided to sell them, although he did not need the money. He thought, so he said, that it was not fair to keep them in a dark warehouse, when they might be a source of joy if they belonged to other persons. So he ordered them sold at auction at Christie's and, despite his years, 83, and ailments, made the long trip to England from South Africa to attend the sale. A big crowd was present and the pictures brought more than a million dollars, but Sir John bought them all. "When I saw them again, one by one, I could not bear to part with them," he said afterward. "I remembered all the trouble I had been to to collect them through 30 years, and each one had some sentimental attraction which I could not overcome." So the condition is as it was before, except that Christie is richer by a large commission.

AMERICAN SOCIETY

"THE CIRCUS SET"

Mrs. Thelma Morgan Converse, now seeking fame in the movies, is a daughter of Harry Hays Morgan, former St. Louisan, and now American Consul-General to Antwerp, Belgium. Her life has been spent in that gilded circle made up of the Astors, Goulds, Vanderbilts and others of "America's 400." Her twin sister is the new Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt. Describing her own crowd, Mrs. Converse says: "It was my lot to belong to the most feverish group of all, generally referred to as the 'circus set,' or, more contemptuously, as 'society.'"

Mrs. Converse and Mrs. Vanderbilt are the daughters of Morgan and his second wife, who is a daughter of Gen. Jackson Kilpatrick of New Jersey. Morgan's first wife, from whom he is divorced, was Miss Molly Edgerton of St. Louis.

By Thelma Morgan Converse,

Twin Sister of Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt.

As Gloria and I grew older and began to play around with college boys during our winters in New York and to frolic with European men during our summers in Brussels and along the Riviera, nothing I learned about flirting or friendship or puppy love altered the opinion I already had formed that Tommy Jones of Harvard or Billy Smith, Princeton '20, was a much more amusing and attractive companion in every way than, say, the Belgian Crown Prince.

I met him—Leopold Philippe Charles Albert Meinard Hubert Marie Miguel, Duke of Brabant—at a garden party in Brussels when I was 14. He is really an awfully nice boy—just 19 then, with a war record as a private serving under fire in the Belgian trenches. The Duke is blue-eyed, fair-haired, bashful and, it must be confessed, a bit dumb in the presence of girls. He is very like his father, King Albert, in that respect. After we were presented at court I tried to chat with the King at the royal garden fête that followed. He flushed and stammered when I introduced some commonplace subject—a charming person, I thought, but unbelievably shy.

That was the summer, I remember, when we were permitted to wear long dresses and put up our hair for the first time at Consuelo's wedding. It was a very exciting event, that wedding.

Consuelo was 17. She was supposed to be engaged to Capt. Francis Terry, a young officer in the French aviation corps, who owned a big sugar plantation in Cuba. Though I'm awfully fond of Consuelo, and all that, she has never been my confidante nor I hers, so I really don't know why she broke it off. But suddenly she announced she was to marry Count Jean.

He was a dandy chap, I thought—handsome, a sportsman and great horse lover and much more heartily and guzzically "American" in his manner than most of his countrymen, though his family dates back to the eleventh century and his title is one of the oldest in France.

The match was considered excellent for Consuelo. Count de Maupas was a brilliant figure in the most exclusive set in Paris—the old French aristocracy, into which few Americans penetrate. American girls who have married into this inner circle could count on the fingers of one hand. Consuelo took her place as one of the principal hostesses of the Paris elite.

The ceremony was performed at the Church of St. Pierre de Chaillot by the Archbishop of Laodicea. Ambassador Wallace and Warrington Dawson were witnesses for the bride and the Marquis de Bettancourt and Count de Malartic for Count Jean. Social and official Paris attended to the last phoned dowager.

I remember Marshal Foch, soldierly stiff in his simple uniform of horizon blue; the Marquis Chatelet, thrilling me with extravagant compliments as though I had been a court beauty instead of a little 14-year-old girl; the reception afterward at which Gloria and I, delightfully happy in our demure bridesmaids' gowns, were toasted and entertained and made love to by courtly young nobles and handsome old beaux.

And yet, even in the thick of all the excitement on that golden day in July, 1920, I cannot say that I envied Consuelo. I had begun to feel even then what was brought home to me two years later when Consuelo divorced the Count in Paris on the usual ground of "incompatibility," that this business of being the wife of a Count or a Duke or a Lord, whether he is French or British or whatnot, is not a lovely life for a high-spirited American girl.

I will not be so bold as to generalize too strongly about Anglo-American marriages, but it is certainly true that in the French and Latin countries the American bride soon finds that she is the victim—yes, the victim—of a double standard in morals and money.

I am no bristling feminist. I do not pretend to be particularly interested in "women's rights." But I do believe in the "50-50 marriage." And in the America I know, which is the America of New York society and an occasional dip into upper Bohemia and the writing and artist world, marriage generally is "50-50."

In theory, at least, the American husband and American wife regard it as a partnership. Most American couples I know have a tacit agreement, either that each shall be faithful to the other or—and this sort of agreement is more frequent than some of our horrified conservatives would imagine—that she shall "live his life" and she shall live hers without the other's interference.

Neither of these plans always work out successfully, of course. But I do contend that marriage, to be any kind of a go where the wife is a woman with more than a sparrow's spirit, must be based on the "50-50" ideal.

That is the ideal to which the American girl is accustomed, and while it happens frequently that the husband "cheats" and then lies about it, at least he does lie! The semblance of honor is maintained.

On the other hand, some of my friends among French matrons amaze me with their passive acceptance of their husbands' delinquencies. At the races at Longchamps one of them, a Countess, remarked to me: "There goes my husband with his newest sweetheart; it is a pretty gown she has on." And when I expressed myself none too tactfully, I am afraid, she puzzled. "You think I should be outraged because of his little intrigues? But, ma foi, that would be such bad form!"

And it would be—"bad form." The French have always had and still have the "100-0" marriage so far as morality is concerned, with the cipher representing the woman. The husband not only may have his affairs—he is expected to have them. The wife, on the other hand, must be impeccable. That this is provocative neither of happiness nor of impeccability on the wife's part, I do not think I have to point out. Am I being very old-fashioned and preachy? I do not feel so. Am I being catty to the French? My apologies—and my sympathies for their wives. I have said that the double standard applies to money as well as morality on the Continent. But that I mean that the husband is the exclusive watchdog of the family treasury. Here, as in the question of fidelity, American couples generally share alike—again, I will qualify, in theory. "Junior" Converse and I, for example, had our ups about money, as most married couples do, but certainly he wouldn't have dreamed of standing on a platform of "what's mine is mine and what's yours is mine, too."

Your foreign husband doesn't repudiate any such policy, however. It's part of the motto on his escutcheon. The bride not only brings him her "dot," he not only holds his own purse-strings, but he not infrequently expects to hold hers. If she has a bit of independent property, she should sign it over to her lord and master. Has it not always been done thus in cultured Europe?

Nor if the bride happens to be an American and an heiress does that improve matters in her favor. Your nobleman, to be blunt about it, believes sincerely he has more than evened up matters by conferring on her his ancient name, though he be penniless as Halp the beggar. Why blink truth? I love France, the nation. I adore many things about the French people. But the French aristocrat does regard us as a provincial, parvenu nation; when he trades his title for Yankee gold, the girl is still his debtor, he thinks.

I do not know that my sister, Consuelo, found any troubles of this sort in her wedded life. I repeat that I am not her confidante. The reason for their break might have been exactly what she said—"incompatibility."

But I am glad for Consuelo that she is simply Mrs. Thaw. Her new husband is first secretary of the American embassy in Brussels. He is a graduate of Yale, class of 1909, and served during the war in the United States aviation corps in France. One of his brothers, Lieut. Blar Thaw, was killed flying over the lines in 1918. He, too, was in the American aviation corps. So was another brother, William Thaw II. "Ben" Thaw's father is Benjamin Thaw Sr., a quiet, scholarly old gentleman, who is quite different from his half-brother, Harry Kendall Thaw.

I suppose Consuelo and her husband will be coming to America soon. The Thaws own a villa, "Beachmont," on Bellevue avenue in Newport, besides a home on Park avenue in New York, the old Thaw mansion in Pittsburgh, and a residence in Paris.

It would be jolly to summer in Newport, with Consuelo there and Gloria only a few miles away at Reggie Vanderbilt's Sandy Point Farm. But my ambitions call for plans quite different from loafing on the sands at Bailey's Beach. Why I prefer those plans to Bailey's and the Casino I will try to make my readers understand in my next chapter, in which I shall reveal some interesting details of how society frolics and frolics at Newport, Southampton and other "Coney Islands" of the smart set.

To Be Continued.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

Restless Man.

MAN never has been quite content, nor was from Adam's day; it's simply not the natural bent of Father Adam's clay. His garden plot was fair enough, but still he wished to go where winds were fiercer and waves were rough and nature seemed a foe. He fought with cruel handicaps in time's primeval dawn; but, as the long, slow ages lapse, we see him creeping on. He often stumbled, worn and spent, but still, he scooped at ease as up and one he slowly went through aching centuries. For there were visions in his brain of yet untrodden ways, of goals that he at last would gain in better, brighter days. At first at hard and heavy toil, close kin to rock and sod, he wrestled with the stubborn soil, himself a speaking clod! Still restless after weary days, he peered through labor's bars, till up the tranquil azure ways he glimpsed, at last the stars. Then climbing on, he slowly read the secrets they reveal, the wonders far about us spread, how suns and systems wheel. And seeking still, as up and up with lighter step he faded, and drinking deep of learning's cup, still more and more he dared! He waged great wars with time and space, and in his restless quest he crossed the

Fashion News Notes

Little Bankow hats are often draped with velvet and chiffon in contrasting shades. The trimming may be in two shades of orange or amber on a hat of sunburst brown.

Color combinations mark the summer sport clothes on exhibition in London. Gowns of deep coral crepe are worn with hats of bright yellow and scarfs of foulard in brilliant red and white.

Garden party hats are often made of organdie these days. The material is finely tucked on the wide brim, brought up to a slightly peaked crown and topped off by a handful of satin frills.

Sports sweaters worn in the East are made of very fine wool containing silk thread. Such a sweater in gray with a gray silk stripe and a collar and cuffs of silk striped wool in delft blue was seen lately.

desert's dusty face and called the strange sea's breast. He felt the spell that beauty cast in ways he passed along; he answered to her lure at last and touched the brights of song. In tunnels like a mole he went, he soared the starry way—for man has never been content, nor was from Adam's day.

DAILY FROM NOW ON

By FRANK L. PACKARD

THE TRAP.

DAVE HENDERSON lost no time on his return journey. Within some 15 or 20 minutes after leaving the residence of Mr. Martin K. Tydemann, he slipped into the lane at the rear of the shabby house on the shabby street that he called his home, and, entering the shed, closed the door softly behind him. Here, it was but the work of an instant to take the sealed package of banknotes from the black handbag, reach up, slide the package into the little door of the old pigeon-cote, push the package over into one corner, cover it with the chaff and old straw with which, relics of by-gone days of occupancy, the bottom of the pigeon-cote was littered, and to close the little door again.

He stooped then, and, unlacing his shoes quickly, removed them. He had only one thing to guard against now, and his alibi was perfect: his possession of $100,000 secured. Toiler must not hear him entering the house. Toiler must be morally convinced that he, Dave Henderson, had never left the house. As soon as he got back to his room again, he would put on his shoes, call up to Toiler that he was going, and, with the empty black handbag, get into his car—and drive up to Martin K. Tydemann's!

"Some uproar!" confided Dave Henderson to himself. "When I ask old Martin K. to fill the 17' old bag, he'll be gone for the cash, there'll be—"

His mental soliloquy ended abruptly. He had opened the door noiselessly that led into the house, and was creeping without a sound along the hallway toward the door of his room at the front of the house—and now suddenly he stood rigid and motionless. Was it fancy, his imagination playing tricks upon him, or had Toiler come downstairs? It seemed as though he had caught the sound of a lowered voice; and it seemed as though it had come from his own room there along the hall.

And then he smiled sarcastically at himself, and began to creep forward again. He had complained of the whole thing being tame, and now he was getting an attack of nerves when it was all over! How could he have heard a lowered voice through the closed door of his room? It was a physical impossibility. And Toiler, in any case, was not in the habit of talking to himself! Toiler never talked to anyone if he could help it. The man always seemed to be nursing a perennial grudge that he hadn't been born a mute!

Dave Henderson's smile broadened at his little conceit—and the next instant vanished entirely, as his lips compressed suddenly into a hard, straight line. He had halted for the second time, huddled now close against the wall. The door of his room was not closed, and it was not Toiler—and it was not nerves. The door was slightly ajar, and the words came quite audibly; and the guarded voice had a haunting familiarity about it:

"Sure, I grabbed the train, an' Bookie stalled on being able to get old Tydemann on the long-distance until after the train—an' me on it—was on our way. Tumble!"

Dave Henderson did not move. Into his face there had come, set in a grayish-whiteness, a look that mingled stunned amazement and a gathering fury. He had recognized that voice now—and, in a flash, what that voice meant. It was Rusty Mott, a miserable little red-haired rat of a race-course tout and hanger-on. Rusty Mott—Bookie Skarvan! He remembered very well indeed that Bookie Skarvan could not get Tydemann on the long distance until after the train was gone!

Another voice chuckled in malicious accent.

"Take it from me"—it was Rusty Mott again—"Bookie Skarvan's got some head! Some head! He was wiped out all right, but I guess this puts him on Easy Street again. Fifty thousand for him, an' we split the rest. Bookie says to me, he says, 'I saw Dave goes an' gets the money, an' disappears afterwards,' he says. 'It's a cluck, with the ragged reputation he's got, that he stole it, an' beat it for parts unknown,' he says. 'Is a nice little mound of earth somewhere in the woods about six feet long an' four feet deep, due to Dave having collided with a blackjack. I guess the police'll be conclude after a while that Dave was smart enough to give 'em the slip an' get away with the coin for keeps. You grab the train for 'Frisco, Rusty,' he says, 'an' wise up Baldy Vickers to what I say. You got a good two hours,' he says, 'to set the stage up there before Dave blows in.'"

Came that malicious chuckle again.

"An' the poor boob went an' cracked the crib himself!" ejaculated Rusty Mott's companion—and chuckled once more.

"Sure!" said Rusty Mott. "Bookie called the turn all right on the guy's reputation—he was born a crook. Well, it makes it all the easier, don't it? It might have been easier to get him when we wanted him if he'd just gone up there an' got the money on the level. As it is now, he's ducking his nut, trying to play innocent, an' he comes back here to make a nice fresh start up to old Tydemann's again. Only he didn't reckon on any one trailing him from the minute he got out of his car! I guess we got him—good. Spike telephoned 10 minutes ago that Dave was on his way back. If he comes in by the shed, the boys'll see he don't get out that way again; an' if he comes in by the front he'll get a peach of a welcome home! Tumble! This is where he croaks—an' no noise about it—an' you look out that you swing the lead so's you won't have to swing it twice. We can carry him out through the shed, an' get the mortal remains away in a car with no one the wiser." Rusty Mott was chuckling now quite as maliciously as his companion. "Can't you see the headlines in the papers! 'Promising Young Man Succumbs to Temptation.' Say, it's the safest thing that was ever pulled, an'—"

He was silent in the house—only the silence began to pound and throb, and become a world of riot and dismay, and make confused noises of its own. Crouched against the wall, Dave Henderson raised his hand to his forehead—and drew his hand away damp with beads of moisture. There was an overmastering rage, a tigerish ferocity upon him; but his brain, most curiously, was deadly cold in its composure, and was working now swift as lightning flashes. Keen, alert, shrewd, active. The words he had just heard meant—murder. His murder! The very callousness of the words but lent a hideous sincerity to them. Also he knew Baldy Vickers—if any further proof was needed. Baldy Vickers was a gangster to whom murder was a trade; and Baldy Vickers with stakes in the thousands, when he would have committed any crime in the decade with greedy haste for a hundred-dollar bill, meant—murder.

He was stooping now, silently, with the utmost caution, slipping on his shoes. And now from the rear there came a faint sound, a low creaking, like the stealthy rending of wood. He knew what it meant: They were forcing the shed door—to follow him in here—to cut off his escape, and to assist if necessary in the work those two were waiting to perform in his room, which he was expected to enter.

His face was set, drawn in lines as hard as chiseled marble. And yet he could have laughed—laughed out in the bitterest mockeries. The game was up—even if he saved his life. He would be "wanted" for the theft of one hundred thousand dollars. He could not cover that up now. If he escaped Baldy Vickers and his pack, he would still be a fugitive from the law. And, worse still, he would be a fugitive empty-handed, chased like a mangy dog.

who had risked his all for a bone—and had dropped the bone in his flight! God, if he could only get back there and get that money! But there were footsteps coming now—they were coming nearer and nearer to the door that opened from the shed into the rear of the house. Fury surged upon him again. Skarvan! Bookie Skarvan! It was Skarvan, not Baldy Vickers, not that miserable, red-headed rat of a tout in there, that he would have sold his soul at that instant to settle with. It was Skarvan, the dirty Judas, not the others, who, snug and safe, had planned his. Dave Henderson's murder in deliberate, cold-blooded hellishness! Well, if he, Dave Henderson, lived, Bookie Skarvan would pay . . . an eye for an eye . . . that was God's law, wasn't it? . . . well, as certainly as God lived, Bookie Skarvan would pay . . . it was another incentive for him, Dave Henderson, to live now. . . .

RECENT experiments have proved that even the lowly snail can learn. "After a hundred trials or so," says Prof. P. Arthur Thomson, "the snails that were being tested would open and close their mouths whenever their mouths and feet were touched respectively with a piece of lettuce and a glass rod. Forty-eight hours after the snails had learned that lesson, the experimenters tried pressing the snails' feet with the glass rod. The cleverest snail moved its mouth as if to find the lettuce, and kept it up for seven times, but in the end would not respond at all; it had had enough of experimentation. But the point is that the snail began to associate the idea of food with a pressure

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

At Last Peter Knows.

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

The thing that once you wished you knew Proves hardly worth while listening to.

HARDLY had Danny and Nanny-Meadow Mouse got well started on their search for a new home when they met Peter Rabbit. Peter saw right away that something was wrong. "Hello, folks!" said he. "Where are you going?"

"To look for a new home," replied Nanny.

"To look for a new home?" exclaimed Peter in great astonishment. "I thought you had a new home."

"We did have, but we haven't any more," replied Nanny sadly.

"Why not?" demanded Peter.

"Because Mr. Blacksnake found it, and we won't dare go back there to live," spoke up Danny.

Right then it popped into Peter's head that he never had found that home, although he had looked and looked and looked for it. "Since you are not going to live there any more, I don't suppose you will mind telling me where that home is which you have left," said Peter.

"Not in the least," replied Danny, and his little black eyes began to twinkle. "We don't care who knows about it now. You have sat under it two or three times."

"What's that?" exclaimed Peter. "What's that?"

"I said you have sat under it several times," replied Danny, and his bright little eyes twinkled more than ever.

"Danny Meadow Mouse, what under the sun are you talking about?" cried Peter.

"About that fine home of ours which we have just left, and which you have hunted for so often," retorted Danny.

Peter scratched a long ear with a long hind foot, and he scratched the plain foolishness, Danny Meadow Mouse," he declared at last. "I haven't been in a hole in the ground for so long that I can't remember when I was in one last."

"What has that got to do with it?" demanded Danny.

"Well, the only way I could sit under a home of yours would be to be down in the ground," retorted Peter.

"Nothing of the kind, Peter; nothing of the kind," replied Danny. "You see this last home of ours was up in a bush."

"What?" cried Peter.

"I said it was up in a bush," squeaked Danny rather sharply. "Do you remember the old nest of Redwing the Blackbird in the alders?"

Peter nodded. "Of course," said he. "I used to see it every time I passed this way last winter."

"That is where we have been living," Danny said. Then he told Peter all about how he had put a roof on that old nest, and what a wonderful home it had been. Peter

HOME-MAKING HELPS

"Everything About the House Helps to Make the Home"

By WANDA BARTON

Here Are New Ways of Helping Santa Claus This Summer.

IN the long drowsy vacation days Christmas seems a long way off, but the woman who makes a great many of her gifts knows that this is just the time to make her lists and plan what she wants to make. She is sure to see one or more things that other women are making as they rock on the porches and hear a lot of new ideas about which she may never have thought.

The woman who has a rose bed at home has been provident and dried all her rose leaves for sachets and rose jars. Perhaps she has made rosewater and rose jam and jelly, with a holiday thought in mind. Again, if she has an herb bed she contemplates making herb packets and bottles prettily packaged for city friends who will glory in their flavor and freshness. These little things are so much more acceptable than cards—no matter how expensive they made be.

Buying the finest quality of huck toweling and embroidering a set or two of guest towels for gifts is pleasing work and make most acceptable presents because they are hand-made. Bath towels to match may be initiated.

Hand-made handkerchiefs are always an acceptable gift, and there are dozens of designs that are new and attractive to follow. The color-had to laugh himself when Danny told how he had been in that nest right over Peter's head, and heard Peter talking to himself that first time he failed to find the Meadow Mouse home.

"But where are you going now?" cried Peter.

"We don't know, but we are going somewhere where Mr. Blacksnake won't find us. Come on, Danny; we can't waste any more time," said Nanny.

A dust-cloth bag of gingham may contain six cheesecloth dusters of convenient size that have the edges buttonholed in colored wool. These make such nice dusters it is a wonder more people don't use them. Cotton flannel dusters for piano and polished tables may be finished in the same way.

Again, there are waist hangers that may be covered and sachet-filled for the woman friend who takes great care of her clothes. Two hangers may be covered with dainty figured ribbons, two with velvet ribbons striped and ribbon rose-trimmed, one with crash toweling for damp things, and one with colored linen for laundered things.

Cheese-cloth squares with feather-stitched hems, and an eyelet hole in the center to slip over the hook, should be made for each hanger, to cover the garments and keep out dust.

Luncheon sets of linen, crash or canvas make pretty pick-up porch work and are very acceptable gifts. They cost a lot when one must buy them ready made; then it is not always possible to get them in the coloring that matches the home china. The original outlay for the materials is not great, but it is the hand work which adds to their value. Separate table squares are a nice gift when done in cross-stitch, or with added colored linen borders—if there are gifts less pretentious to be made.

The bag-family is endless, and they may be graded so as to make the materials to suit the value of the gift one wishes to make. For the friend who travels extensively, a set of trunk linens is a gift well appreciated. For the bride-to-be, dainty negligees, bed packets, caps and kerchiefs are sure to be welcome—especially if the bride is a business woman who has but little time to spend on her own pretty things.

There is always a new baby that has arrived—or is expected—and there are many little things that may be made for its Christmas. A cradle veil is sure to be welcome for use over the carriage when it stands outdoors at nap time, or over the cradle on the sun porch. The veils are made of double width net squared, a wide ribbon or double satin fold finishes the edge and at the corners, ribbon covered weights keep the wind from blowing it away. Dainty throws for cradle or carriage, are a used to be filled.

Pillow covers and cases are always in order. For the friend who motors, a heart-shaped pillow with an embroidered silk cover that matches the lining of the car will be very acceptable.

Henry Ford believes that even a factory machine needs rest

When asked why he favored short hours for workers, Henry Ford said that no good engineer will run even a machine at its limit of power and speed for very long. It hurts the machine. It is not sentimentalism to take care of machines—or men. It is plain common sense and efficiency.

Sleep recharges the batteries of energy. It repairs and keeps in order the fine mechanism of the human body. It is good judgment and economy, therefore, to own and use bedding that will give you deep and restful sleep. Spare ten minutes tonight to get acquainted with the bed you sleep on. Then go to your furniture dealer's and compare what you are using with the Simmons springs and mattresses he offers in a wide style-and-price range.

Weigh the facts and decide whether you are getting the kind of energy-restoring rest your living machine needs—and can enjoy now at such very moderate cost.

REDUCED TO BARE NECESSITIES.

AS he traveled through the Arkansas bottoms, the tourist from the East marveled at the fecundity of canine life as manifested in every settlement. Late in the afternoon he came to a cabin set in the middle of a clearing and halted to ask his way.

The head of the house, a bewhiskered person, came to the fence in answer to the traveler's hail and gave him the directions for reaching the county seat. With him came an eruption of barking, lop-eared hounds, some of them black and tan and some showing a mongrel admixture in their coloring.

"How many dogs have you?" asked the Easterner. "Well, sah," said the native, "I've had a sight of bad luck with my hound-dogs. Some kind of a disease has got in amongst 'em and it keeps on killin' 'em off. I've doctored 'em the best I know how, but seems like it don't do no good. Let's see, now—how many have I got left? There's Ring and Sounder and Queenie, yonder, and Rip and Ole Tice, the granddaddy of the pack, and Trixie and the new litter of pups under the house—jest 'leven in all."

He sighed deeply. "Sometimes it looks like I ain't never goin' to be able to get a start on hound-dogs no more."
